BRIDGE OVER ANDERSON CREEK IN BORO OF CURWENSVILLE COLLAPSES EARLY TODAY; TWO AUTOMOBILES GO DOWN WITH WRECK

Structure Erected By County In 1899, Following the June Flood, Finally Succumbs to Ravages of Time and Neglect and Drops Into the Creek With a Great Crash at 10 o'clock This A. M.

OCCUPANTS OF CARS ESCAPE INJURY

The county bridge across Anderson Creek at the upper end of Curwensville, which has been creaking and groaning and dropping big rusted wheels with every passing vehicle, neglected and forlorn, the past three or four years, endeavoring to hold out until the new state road between Curwensville and Grampian was completed, decided that ancient, rusty old iron could stand no more and about 10 o'clock this morning bowed its senile head in grief and shame, and with a final creak of cracked protest, dropped down into the creek's bed.

The ancient and neglected old relic had her boots on when she fell, as two touring cars and a coal truck were on the bridge when she dropped off the abutments. There were several people in each of the automobiles when the bridge caved in, but like the faithful old wagon she was before she done broke down, the old bridge settled gently down under the machines, carrying them safely to the creek bed with the result that while the poor old bridge is a total wreck, nobody got hurt. The automobiles were smashed up some.

The bridge was erected by the Nelson & Buchanan Bridge Company of Pittsburgh, following the June flood of 1899. The County Commissioners who had the same erected were Messrs Geo. I. Thompson, James Savage and Jacob Mock.

The automobiles on the bridge at time of the bridge's collapse were owned by John Wood and a man named Ziggers, both of near Grampian.

There were five people in the Ziggers car, all of whom had very narrow escapes from injury as one of the overhead cross beams dropped across the wreck just ahead of their car. Had the car been five feet further along the beam would have fallen across the car.

CLEARFIELD FAIR TO BE FINEST GIVEN IN LOCAL HISTORY

Exhibits to Be Bigger and Better Than Ever Before; Amusements Will Also Be Greater.

OPENS SEPT. 25TH.

The Clearfield County Agricultural Society and Clearfield Fair Association have everything about in readiness for the greatest fair ever held in this section of Pennsylvania. That better than ever before goes without saying and is apparent to every person going inside the park enclosure even now.

Manager Callahan and the board of managers have been hard at work the past three months and have everything in readiness for the big exhibition, even down to the smallest detail. The exhibits will be far and away ahead of even last year's remarkable list and display and require much additional space for their showing, while the amusement program has also been greatly enlarged and will have something really worth while doing all the time during the four days of the fair which starts September 25th and ends September 28th.

There will be lost of music, lots of shows, lots of horse racing and lots of everything else generally found on the bill at county fairs, while a whole lot of out of the ordinary features will also be provided during the week. In addition to the day sessions there will also be evening entertainments consisting of band concerts, shows and other amusements each evening.

If you want to see the greatest county fair ever held in Central Pennsylvania come to Clearfield next week.

Navy Dirigible Is On Visit To Washington

Lakehurst, N. J., Sept. 22.—The United States Naval dirigible, ZR-1, left the Naval Air Station here at 10.30 o'clock, daylight time, to pay an official visit to Washington, D. C. The air ship was manned by a crew of five officers and twenty-five enlisted men.

The dirigible soared to an altitude of 4,000 feet and then turned its cigar shaped nose southwestward for her longest flight at forty knots an hour.

The ZR-1, upon reaching the capital will circle the Washington monument and the Lincoln memorial. An air visit to the White House will then be made, the ship dipping its giant prow in salute to the President.

After various maneuvers in Washington the air ship will fly to the Arlington National Cemetery to pay homage to the unknown soldier. A wreath will be dropped on the grave.

A flight down the historic Potomac River to Mt. Vernon is then scheduled. The ZR-1 will fly over the tomb of George Washington, dipping its nose three times in a salute.

Whooping Cough Is Racking Local Kiddies

Nine cases of whooping cough developed in Clearfield during the past seven days and were placed under quarantine by the Board of Health, according to the report of Secretary Gaultin of the Health Board. One case of scarlet fever was also reported to the health authorities for the week.

There are at present a total of 23 cases of communicable disease under quarantine in the town, 21 of which are whooping cough. They are located as follows:

- Whooping Cough, 21; Diphtheria, 1
- Scarlet Fever, 1
- 1st Ward—Whooping Cough, 3
- 2nd Ward—Diphtheria, 1; Scarlet fever, 1; Whooping Cough, 2
- 3rd Ward—Whooping Cough, 12
- 4th Ward—Whooping Cough, 4

KLANIS BEATEN SAYS GOVERNOR WALTON IN OKLAHOMA MIX-UP

Klan Dragon Jewett Is Arrested in Governor's Fight Against the "Invisible Empire."

FLOGGING CHARGE

Oklahoma City, Okla., Sept. 22.—"The Ku Klux Klan is beaten," Governor J. C. Walton declared today following the arrest of N. C. Jewett, Klan Dragon for the organization in Oklahoma, and other sensational developments in the Executive's warfare on the "Invisible Empire."

Warrant for arrest of Jewett was issued by prosecutor J. K. Wright, who admitted he had personally paid an initiation fee in the Klan. Evidence on which Jewett's arrest was based was given the Military Court of Inquiry by Dr. A. A. Maupin, dentist, and former Klan member. He said Jewett admitted to him that he had "laid on the lash" personally in the flogging of E. R. Merri man.

The Governor is still determined that the meeting of the Oklahoma Legislature, called for next Wednesday to start impeachment proceedings against him, will never assemble. Walton said he had information to prove "beyond a doubt" that W. B. McBee, leader in the move for the special session of the Legislature is an active member of the Duncan, Oklahoma Klan.

The Governor accused the "Klan kept press" of Oklahoma refused to print the facts developed by the Military Court of Inquiry. However, he said a great many newspapers outside of the state were giving splendid service.

In order to get the facts of martial law developments before the people of the state, Jimmy Mathers of Ardmore, plans to have thousands of circulars printed and dropped over the state, telling of the revelations against the Klan, obtained by the Military Court.

The Governor said he would prove the Klan shipped its records to Atlanta, Georgia, when the military investigation started.

Oklahoma City, Okla., Sept. 22.—Two additional military courts, to examine witnesses in the investigation of alleged lawlessness and Ku Klux Klan rule in Oklahoma, were established today by Governor Jack Walton.

Scores of Klansmen, represented to be special agents of the governor were examined by the military inquirers as plans were speeded to complete the proceedings before the date set by state legislators for a special session to impeach Walton.

Testimony already uncovered by the governor's military aides has placed entire responsibility for whipping by night riders and other acts of lawlessness at the door of the Ku Klux Klan. On the strength of this evidence, the governor caused the arrest of N. C. Jewett, grand dragon of the Oklahoma realm of the Klan and made the sensational declaration: "The Klan is whipped. Rule of the invisible empire in Oklahoma is done for."

KU KLUX KLANNERS UP AGAINST THE LAW

Pittsburgh, Pa., Sept. 22.—Four Ku Klux Klansmen were arraigned in police court today, charged with disorderly conduct in connection with an attempt to set fire to a huge cross last night on a hillside about 100 feet from a Roman Catholic church.

Three of the men, R. C. Batz, Z. H. Francis and E. H. Meas, were fined $10.00 and costs but the fourth man, C. J. Schmidt, was held for further hearing when police officers testified they found two handbills in his automobile. A loaded automatic revolver was found in another car, to which Batz admitted ownership. The police testified that the rector at the church told them he had received a note from the Klan some time ago, stating that the Klan would soon "pay him a visit."

Striking Pressmen Are Given Ultimatum

New York, Sept. 22.—An ultimatum to striking pressmen, who all but stopped publication of metropolitan newspapers for nearly a week has been announced by publishers and the national union.

The National and Publishers have signed an agreement which will guarantee the men better working conditions. This agreement will be put before the local union Sunday, according to arrangements made today, and the men will be granted an opportunity to return to work under the agreement or have their local union outlawed.

One. Wages will be increased $3.00 a week.

Two. Working hours will be reduced from 48 hours a week to 45 hours for both day and night to 45 hours for day and 41 hours for night shifts.

Three. Other points of dispute are to be settled by arbitration.

RUHR SITUATION IS GETTING WORSE

Berlin, Sept. 22.—The situation in the Ruhr is becoming constantly worse, according to information here.

Some officials even predict a nation-wide outbreak inside of a month unless the Ruhr question is settled, and assert an outbreak may occur even if the Ruhr problem is liquidated in the near future.

Today's situation in Germany resembles that of 1918, when Germany's army admittedly had fought many months too long.

The conservative Germans fear the Ruhr war also has been overplayed by at least four months. They say the demand of Premier "Chambre" of France for Germany's complete and public capitulation is the only exit for the Government, unless it wishes to face a revolution similar to that which succeeded the armistice in 1918.

JAPANESE RELIEF SHOULD ALL BE IN BY MONDAY NEXT

Need for Haste Is Emphasized in Red Cross Appeals; Urge People to Contribute Now.

MONEY IS NEEDED

The work of raising Clearfield chapter's quota for America's promised $5,000,000 Japanese relief fund, which was requested by President Calvin Coolidge, immediately following the destructive earthquake, fire and tidal wave which swept the island of Japan a few weeks ago, leaving death and destruction behind it, is being carefully looked after by Chairman Overly and his aids and while a goodly sum has been raised, the required $3,000 is not yet at hand.

It is the hope of those interested in this noble work of charity that the entire amount will be in hand and ready for transmission to national headquarters by Monday next. To this end a special appeal is made to all those who have not yet contributed to make their contributions today or not later than Monday.

Drop into any bank or leave your contribution with your merchant and same will be turned over to the committee in time to go in with the total contribution. There is need for haste in this matter as the money and relief work it will finance is badly needed.

Hand in your money now and let us have done with this matter, please.

The following are among the recent contributions received:—

- Jno. W. Reed $25.00
- Howard Stewart 5.00
- Dr. G. J. Brett 5.00
- H. J. Goss (Woodland) 5.00

Mr. Leonard Evans and little son are visiting with relatives in Berwindale, Pa.

FOOTBALL PLAYERS AT CLEARFIELD IN GETTING IN SHAPE

Local Grid Warriors On the Warpath and Will Make Their Opponents Hustle to Beat Them

SEASON SCHEDULE

Football season soon under way. The Grid Warriors are getting into shape. Although training started only a few weeks ago, Clearfield's Grid Warriors have been working hard for these two weeks and are coming along fine in their physical condition. They have been kept busy with charging, tackling, blocking, punting and kicking under the tutelage and planning of coach Fred H. Hoke.

Today's practice was a slow and hard one, due to wet weather. Last evening after the collection of $100 weekly from the coaches put the squad thru some hard physical work and scrimmages. Every man was kept on the jump from three o'clock till six-thirty. Next week will see the squad spending more time on signals and defense, with plenty of work on the dummy, and blocking. The game is full of pep and spirit and next week's game is expected to be a real test.

The Grid Warriors start Monday, and the game is every Sunday. The Grid Warriors are now in the midst of the season and are looking for a good season.

RUMORS OF NEW WAR IN BALKANS HEARD

London, Sept. 22.—Rumors of a possible Balkan war continued here today as the long drawn out negotiations between Italy and Jugoslavia for settlement of the question of Fiume failed to reach an agreement.

The new Italian Dictator, Benito Mussolini, is determined to depart for Rome on Sunday and make a personal report to Premier Mussolini on the situation.

A string of decrees are pending from the Governor's palace show unmistakably Rome is determined to remain in Fiume, trade or no trade, thus ensuring security to the position of Trieste as the principal port of the Adriatic. One decree provides for the constitution of a new Government Council, which will act in a purely advisory capacity.

Jugo-slavia views the whole situation with bitter suspicion. The Serbs envisage an attempt to encircle them while allowing Italian imperialism into Fiume.

CHILD DRINKS LYOL

The little 3-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Bavel, who have apartments in the Liberty theatre building, picked up a bottle of lyol in the bath room shortly after dinner today and drank a quantity of the stuff. Dr. W. S. Piper was speedily called and prompt application of the stomach pump soon relieved the little sufferer. No other effects save a burned mouth and lips are expected to result from the occurrence.

KU KLUX KLAN PLAN NOTED TRAPPER ON BIG RALLY AT DUBOIS

DuBois, Pa., Sept. 22.—A widely heralded meeting of the Ku Klux Klan is scheduled for DuBois tonight, and it is declared that there will be thousands of Klansmen in this city for the affair, which continues over Sunday. It is declared that there will be no parade this evening, as was originally broadcasted, initiation of candidates being the only thing on the program.

According to a circular that was distributed throughout the city during Thursday night, there will be a public meeting at the Fairgrounds on Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock, at which time a man "who knows" and "should know" will tell what "you want to know and should know" about the Ku Klux Klan. There will also be a lady speaker. The circular states that everybody will be welcomed.

FOUR MEN INJURED IN TANKER BLOW-UP

San Francisco, Cal., Sept. 22.—Four men were seriously injured when the boiler of the oil tanker William F. Herries exploded at Avon, near here, today.

The tanker, belonging to the Associated Oil Company, was towed out into Suisun Bay when fire, which followed the explosion, threatened to set off 46,000 barrels of distillate which was on board.

Fire tugs from San Francisco were sent to help fight the fire. Members of the crew stayed aboard the ship, fighting the flames which were making rapid headway.

FIND YOUR BLOOD MATE, THEN WED

Philadelphia, Sept. 21.—Happy marriages can be prevented by means of blood tests, Dr. William S. Bainbridge, of New York, today told the American Association of Obstetricians, Gynecologists, and Abdominal Surgeons in convention here.

Dr. O. M. Gruhitz of Detroit, presented the theory that there were four different kinds of blood. In the discussion that followed, Dr. Bainbridge asserted that by making blood tests of persons in love, unhappy unions could be forestalled, as only the mating of persons in the same blood group could be recommended.

This would result, he explained in the marriage of people who had a natural affinity for each other and who could withstand together the trials of life.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Pullen and children, of Mahaffey are spending the week end with Mrs. Henry Mumper on W. Pine street.

C. E. Logue, of Potter county, said by President John M. Phillips, of the Penna State Game Commission, to be the greatest bear trapper in the United States, and who is one of the most successful trappers in Pennsylvania, was in the down-river section yesterday in company with Game Protector Davis, demonstrating to a number of sportsmen and farmers in every section visited the best methods for trapping foxes, wild cats and other predatory animals and vermin.

Mr. Logue has been traveling over the mountain counties of the State for the past two months, under the direction of the State Game Commission, teaching the best methods for trapping the vermin which prey upon small game and birds.

During the past two years Mr. Logue trapped no less than forty bears up in Potter County and shipped them to other sections of the State for stocking purposes.

German Government Will End Its Passive Resistance In Ruhr

Berlin, Sept. 22.—The German government late today decided that passive resistance of the Ruhr must be ended without delay.

The decision was reached following a conference in which government leaders reviewed the internal situation and the Franco-Belgian reaction to Chancellor Stresemann's proposal for final abandonment of resistance, as made through the Belgian minister.

The decision was reached following morning, to decide in what form the public statement will be issued soon after the Reichstag reconvenes Wednesday.

GOVERNOR PINCHOT LOOKING INTO ACTS OF MAYOR CAUFFIEL

Harrisburg, Pa., Sept. 22.—Governor Pinchot has ordered a thorough investigation of the condition at Johnstown, Pa., where negroes and Mexicans are reported to have been ordered by the mayor to leave the town, it was stated at the Department of Justice here today.

The investigation was being made by Attorney General Woodruff, who said his department "was actively engaged in the matter."

Mrs. Chas Mumper and two sons of Grady, Pa., are visiting at the home of Mrs. Henry Mumper on W Pine street.

All this has not happened by accident. There is, to observers here, a singularly clear design apparent in it. This design is simply to reduce to a minimum the chance of administrative officials getting "the wires crossed" or "upsetting the apple cart" or "spilling the beans."

That is, Mr. Coolidge, catapulted by calamity into his present position, is facing the delicate task of carrying out policies of his predecessor—about which he knows in a general way, of course, but with the intricacies of which he is not yet fully familiar—and at the same time impressing himself so upon the consciousness of the country and of his party that he will

Soft Pedal On At The Capital

President Coolidge Doesn't Intend to Have Some Wellmeaning Cabinet Officers Spill the Beans.

By LAWRENCE MARTIN (United Press Staff Correspondent.)

Washington, Sept. 22.—They're stepping heavy on the soft pedal in Washington these days.

Just as many "conferences" are held by cabinet officers and the President as formally; but whereas these conferences used to produce a modicum of news and a great many views, which were duly passed on to the public for what they might be worth, there is now discernible a gradual but steady change.

The modicum of news is missing. The views are still given, it is true, but with great circumspection. Even they are much more restricted, and there are hints that before long some of these "conferences" may be dried up altogether, as sources of information and inspiration for those who attempt to tell the American people what their government is doing, and why.

All this has not happened by accident. There is, to observers here, a singularly clear design apparent in it. This design is simply to reduce to a minimum the chance of administrative officials getting "the wires crossed" or "upsetting the apple cart" or "spilling the beans."

That is, Mr. Coolidge, catapulted by calamity into his present position, is facing the delicate task of carrying out policies of his predecessor—about which he knows in a general way, of course, but with the intricacies of which he is not yet fully familiar—and at the same time impressing himself so upon the consciousness of the country and of his party that he will be accorded the nomination in 1924. President Playing Safe.

Another way of saying this is, that Mr. Coolidge doesn't want to be embarrassed, either in carrying out his conception of the Harding policies—und his conception possibly will not be Mr. Harding's conception in every case—or in maintaining his position as the logical nominee of his party in 1924, by too free utterances by some of his advisers and associates, who were closer to Mr. Harding than Mr. Coolidge was.

It would be embarrassing, to say the least, and it might be disastrous, to have one of the Harding cabinet say that a Harding policy meant one thing, when Mr. Coolidge construed it to mean something different.

The President has taken the lead in trying to prevent anything untoward like that happening. He has asked that speculation regarding his program, or his political future, be avoided.

He has appointed as his secretary, one of the most accomplished "soft peddlers" in the business—Bascom Siemp of Virginia, an older hand in the political game than Mr. Coolidge. Secretary of the Treasury Mellon has suggested that he might have to forego his conferences with newspapermen because of what he termed misinterpretation of some of his remarks.

Mr. Hoover has shut up like a clam, though he never was very talkative.

"Cautious Cal" has, in other words, impressed his associates with something of his own reticence, and whatever other faults the administration may be found to have, talkativeness will not be among them.

GERMANY IS NEAR TOTAL COLLAPSE

London, Sept. 22.—Prime Minister Baldwin is expected to confer with Foreign Minister Curzon today regarding what British statesmen consider of the "imminent collapse of Germany."

It was declared, however, that the latest set of German proposals for abandonment of passive resistance in the Ruhr on the condition that German citizens expelled and arrested be allowed to return to their homes does not apply directly to Great Britain since it was submitted through the Belgian Minister at Berlin.

Great Britain, however, is following the situation closely and understanding Chancellor Stresemann's proposal have been indicated officially to both Premiers Lloyd George and Poincaré.

Baldwin was silent on the subject of his conference with Premier Poincaré in Paris, but well informed persons believe that the new German proposals may have been considered by the two Premiers, who were nearly as sanguine as the French about the truth of reports widely printed in Paris that Baldwin and Poincaré had reached a basis for agreement.

Great Britain will expect "any thing" to happen in Germany when the Stresemann Government finally is forced to announce publicly its complete capitulation.

Four Inches Of Snow In Alberta, Canada

Edmonton, Alberta, Sept. 22.—A snow storm swept out of the north and left a four inch blanket on this region today.

The snow was so heavy that it took limbs off many of the shade trees along the city streets.

Late grain was flattened by the blast and harvesting was set back from one to two weeks.

Her Reason.

A woman advertised for a caretaker for her town home, and after interviewing a large number of applicants found one that suited her. "I'm not for giving me the job," said the man, "and might I ask you a question? You stated in the ad that you wanted a married man. Does that mean you have a husband in view for my wife?" "Oh," replied the woman, "I wanted a married man so as to be sure I got some one used to taking orders from a woman."

No More Peters.

There are more churches dedicated to St. Peter than to any other saint. But there has never been a Pope Peter! The custom, according to which Popes change their Christian names on their elevation, was introduced in A. D. 854 by Peter di Porcia. He felt that it would be presumptuous to have himself styled Peter the Second, so he took the name of Sigismund the Second. Following in the same line of sentiment, no Pope has ever retained or assumed the name of Peter.

Political Paragraphs
ODELL HAUSER'S COLUMN

There is no time at which the presidential election is more good for statesmen than when they make good for him. Opponents Senators Pepper and Reed have large in his affections at the moment. They have done their share during the present week.

It may be recalled that last week's paragraphs were devoted to a highly philosophical discussion of the presidential aspirations of Governor Pinchot as they might conflict with the presidential aspirations of President Coolidge.

A summary up of conclusions was that the Republican organization of Pennsylvania would do nothing to help Mr. Pinchot set his feet on the path of greater political honors, in fact, quite to the contrary, would set up any false guide post their ingenuity might suggest to lure him off into side paths that lead down hill.

In fact, not to put too fine a point upon it, the conclusion was that the Republican organization would not be for Governor Pinchot as a presidential candidate and would oppose his having anything whatsoever to do with the choosing of members of the Pennsylvania delegation to the Republican National Convention.

Who was it but Senators Pepper and Reed who obliged this week by a demonstration that the above forecast was a reasonably accurate one?

They did it from Washington. For no reason at all that the innocent bystander could observe, they suddenly became self-conscious. They scurried around the capital participating in what is always described as "a series of conferences." They saw the President. They saw Secretary of the Treasury Mellon, who is from Pennsylvania. They saw various and sundry other persons, to whom they doubtless gave considerable information and from whom they doubtless obtained much.

The high spot in the day's work came when the two senators issued a joint statement on the very thing we are interested in, namely, the Coolidge and the Pinchot presidential candidates.

Their statement began "we have no statement to make," which suggests that just before they made it they had heard someone singing "Yan, We Have No Bananas." It was a little statement and the principal burden of it lay was that a Pennsylvania Senator would of necessity have to devote the most serious deliberation to his attitude "If it be true, as rumored, that President Coolidge will consent to be a candidate for the nomination, and if it be true, as likewise rumored, that Governor Pinchot has presidential aspirations."

In other words Senators Pepper and Reed hit the big gong a reverberating boom and said: "Listen, world, we wish to go on record as not being able to go on record."

They professed themselves right out in public, with nobody of the visible empire urging them, as unable to choose between the ambition of their beloved President and their beloved Governor.

Queer, isn't it? The common or garden variety of spectator might not be able to judge what it was all about. He would know it meant something but he would get little clue to what that something was.

To start with an obvious fact, the action of the two senators and the men with whom they took council, shows the Republican state organization of Pennsylvania in the attitude of putting one finger in its mouth, scuffling an opposite foot, and with downcast eyes and tones of maidenly bashfulness, notifying the President and anyone else who happens to be looking its way, that it is waiting to be coaxed.

When you try to go much deeper than that, you are getting out beyond the life line. Several interpretations are possible to the incident. There will be no attempt to go into that exhaustively here, but two of the most important might be touched upon.

One possible interpretation is that the Republican organization of Pennsylvania was proceeding to the national capital where interest in the subject was most widespread, there to proclaim politely but withal firmly that national Republicanism need have no fear of anything but a "strictly regular" delegation from Pennsylvania to its next National Convention.

Or, to say the same thing in other words, it may have been intended as formal notice that wherever else the boom of Pinchot may flourish it will not flourish in his home state if the organization has anything to do with it—which it thinks it has.

Another interpretation is that the Republican organization of Pennsylvania wants something important from the Coolidge administration and is by this means setting about to get it. Under this interpretation this action might look like a side remark, not to Mr. Coolidge, of course, but to some one of his practical friends like Secretary Bascom Slem, for instance, which, translated into the vernacular of statesmanship, would run somewhat as follows:

"You want votes for Coolidge in the Convention. We've got them because we're not necessarily for this guy Pinchot. You know us, Al. Come across."

That is not a highly romantic or vastly exciting interpretation of the happening, but the more one thinks it over, the more one is inclined to reflect that nature is, after all, grand, and her wonders infinite.

Rather tending towards the first interpretation, however, is the fact that

Progress Editorial For Women

SAD HEARTS AND A CURE
By FLORECE DAVIES

"Nothing to live for!" A woman who had lost an idolized child made this declaration in a dry, tearless voice. To her it was fact. A beautiful home, a doting husband, scores of friends who would gladly have helped her to carry her load of bereavement do not count in her agonized hour. All the comforts with which she was surrounded, were as dust and ashes to her sore heart.

She refused to be comforted. She shut herself away with the dead child's little garments and toys. "Don't tell me time will cure the ache—it is worse this year than it was last," she would say with a despondent shake of the head.

There could be but one end to such persistent brooding over her sorrow. Melancholia—a sanatorium, home again, then a gradual decline and finally, after years of invalidism, the full period and the wreath at the doorway.

Another mother, joyous in her three babies, full of plans for their happy little lives, lost all of them in an epidemic that science understood less at that time than it does now. At first the broken hearted mother wept till it was feared that her eyes would lose their sight. Then, taking a long look away from her own sorrows, she came to realize the sad plight of the little despoiled child widows of India.

"At the graves of my own little daughters I dedicated myself to them," she told an intimate friend long afterward. Her purse, her time, her strength, were freely spent. A trip through the orient resulted in a memorial hospital where abandoned famine sufferers and little girls whose life had been one long burden, grew young and strong under the care of American doctors and nurses.

At home again, the mother whose heart was big enough to take in the women and children across the ocean told other mothers what she had seen and heard. More money came to enlarge the faraway hospital. Other missionaries were sent. By and by in the nearby villages, happy new homes sprung up and new ways were taught to other fathers and mothers by the young men and women who had been reared at orphan age or hospital.

Scarcely a week went by that the little woman back in America, gray haired now, did not receive a letter from some of her big family in India. The big envelopes with the foreign stamps grew more and more frequent and at Christmas time and birthday celebrations, what wonderful parcels—lace from the girls in the orphanage—an inland tray from one of the boys in training—handkerchiefs like cobweb. But best of all, the loving messages, that told how life was made new for the sari-clad girls and the bright-eyed, deft-fingered boys.

"Nothing to live for?" When millions of boys and girls on each side of a great ocean need befriending? The woman who mothers so many over there and had found life rich and full to the last, laid down her pen the other day, after writing to one of her missionary friends. I was her last letter. Who will forge her own burden in helping to take her place?

Schuykill are merely symptomatic of the general movement that went over the state. For the present, the vote is thoroughly tired of "reform." Every year the voter gets more and more presciently about what he will allow to be called "reform." You can no longer get by with what you use to in that sacred name—which I am sure delights "Uncle" Dave Lane of Philadelphia more than I can say.

In other words, the stage is set for real things. Either the organization will ooze in next spring, or there will be a fight that will lay the state open from end to end. Senators Pepper and Reed, the Siamese twins of Republican leadership, will be its prophets—but not its leaders.

Philadelphia affords a striking illustration. A "reform" mayor was elected four years ago and this year the old organization made practically a clean sweep with the largest plurality that has ever been registered.

The same thing happened elsewhere. In Allegheny County, Senator Leslie, who has during the last year been written out of state politics by observers who did not understand his connection with the friends of the friends of Secretary Mellon, bobs up with a full-fledged victory. State Treasurer Snyder did the same thing in Schuylkill County. Leslie and Snyder are the two most outspoken and conspicuous political enemies Governor or Pinchot has in Pennsylvania. He wished their defeat. He encouraged their opponents. But they won hands down.

And Philadelphia, Allegheny and

WHAT IS BEING DONE FOR THE VETERANS OF THE WORLD WAR

By EDWARD NELSON DINGLEY

At the close of the World War, the United States was left with a large number of veterans who were in need of help. The government has been doing much to help them, and the people have been doing much to help them. The result is that the veterans of the World War are now in a better position than they were when they returned home.

The first thing that the government did was to provide them with medical care. This was done by the War Department, and it was a very successful program. The veterans were given medical care at the expense of the government, and they were able to get the care that they needed. This was a very important step, and it has helped many veterans to get on their feet.

The next thing that the government did was to provide them with financial help. This was done by the War Relocation Administration, and it was a very successful program. The veterans were given financial help in the form of cash payments, and they were able to get the help that they needed. This was a very important step, and it has helped many veterans to get on their feet.

The third thing that the government did was to provide them with housing. This was done by the War Relocation Administration, and it was a very successful program. The veterans were given housing in the form of cash payments, and they were able to get the housing that they needed. This was a very important step, and it has helped many veterans to get on their feet.

The fourth thing that the government did was to provide them with education. This was done by the War Relocation Administration, and it was a very successful program. The veterans were given education in the form of cash payments, and they were able to get the education that they needed. This was a very important step, and it has helped many veterans to get on their feet.

The fifth thing that the government did was to provide them with employment. This was done by the War Relocation Administration, and it was a very successful program. The veterans were given employment in the form of cash payments, and they were able to get the employment that they needed. This was a very important step, and it has helped many veterans to get on their feet.

The result of all these things is that the veterans of the World War are now in a better position than they were when they returned home. They are able to get the medical care that they need, the financial help that they need, the housing that they need, the education that they need, and the employment that they need. This is a very good thing, and it is a testament to the government and the people of the United States.

Gossip For Tonight's Tea Table

(Miss Grace Underwood motored to Pittsburgh Thursday to resume her studies at the University.)

Mrs. A. G. Peters of Woodland was shopping in town today.

Rev. Rowles and his wife of Coalport were visitors in town today.

Mrs. J. M. Palmer of Woodland was taken to McGuff's Hospital at Philadelphia. We are hoping for her speedy recovery.

Mrs. Fred Lee has returned from a visit with her sister in Parkersburg, Iowa. Mrs. Lee has been recuperating from a broken ankle.

The U. S. Steamship Berengaria landed in the New York harbor yesterday and among its passengers was James Kerr of Clearfield. His mother, Mrs. James Kerr met him at the pier.

Mrs. Ernest Ibberson of Philadelphia and her daughter Mary Lee are visiting relatives in Clearfield for a few days.

The item of the surprise party for Miss Katharine Thorn was not quite correct. The party was given by the proprietors of the Harlequin Tea Room at the Tea Room. Miss Thorn leaves some day next week for Harrisburg where she will live with her sister Mrs. Bernier and be a day student at Irving College this winter.

Miss Katharine Kelly of Curwensville, who arrived in Clearfield yesterday, was shopping in town today.

Mrs. John Walton, daughter Mrs. Swires, and Mrs. Albert Walton of Philadelphia, who arrived in Clearfield yesterday, were shopping in town today.

Mrs. Ben Hoffer and daughter, of Philadelphia, who arrived in Clearfield Friday.

Mrs. Fred Brown and Mrs. Claude Harkins, of Osceola, were Clearfield visitors today.

COULD HARDLY DO HER WORK

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Made Her Eat, Sleep and Feel Better Every Way

Chicago, Ill.—"I was weak and run-down and in such a nervous condition that I could hardly do my work. I was tired all the time, and dizzy, and could not sleep and had no appetite. I tried different medicines for years, but they did not help me. Then I read in the papers about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and what it had done for other women and gave it a trial. I began to eat better and could sleep, and consider it a wonderful medicine. I recommend it to my friends and will never be without it."

—Mrs. M. O'LEARY, 3640 S. Marshfield Ave., Chicago, Illinois.

It is such letters as these that testify to the value of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. This woman speaks from the fullness of her heart. She describes as correctly as she can her condition, first the symptoms that bothered her the most, and later the disappearance of those symptoms. It is a sincere expression of gratitude.

For nearly fifty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been so praised by women.

ENTIRE VILLAGE BUILT

Only to Be Destroyed by Storm in "The Old Homestead"

A village of forty or more houses, with an old homestead and its outbuildings on the outskirts, was built for "The Old Homestead," a Paramount picture which will be exhibited next Monday and Tuesday at the Driggs theatre. The old homestead was a practical structure with roof and rooms and between scenes the company assembled in the "living room" and amused themselves with games, reading and music.

At the finale of the story a terrific storm destroys the village, but leaves the old homestead intact. James Cruze directed and the cast includes Theodore Roberts, T. Roy Barnes, George Fawcett, Harrison Ford, Ethel Wales, Fritz Ridgway, Kathleen O'Connor, James Mason, Frank Hayes, Z. Wall Covington, E. J. Brady and others.

Brave the North.

Alaskan commerce in 1922 amounted to more than $80,000,000. What a great country Canada will be when its northern empties are developed proportionally. Vast mineral deposits probably wait discovery. Hard coal to solve all our problems close to ocean channels open part of the year. Millions of herds of reindeer and other animals could be herded profitably in those silent wastes. No doubt the great fortunes of the next half century will come from northern adventures and prospectors.

In Norway a rock is taken to the boat which searches for the body of a drowned person. The rock is carried to a cross when passing over the body. In Persia the crossing of a rock is the sign of some event affecting the family, and the master of the house hastens to feel the rock's foot. If they are cold it is a premonition of death, but if they are warm the man is propitious, and the master rejoices in coming good fortune.

"Horse Hoe" Invented in 1692.
The Englishman, Jethro Tull, in 1692, invented his "horse hoe," as he called it. Tull's machine was designed to assist the various plants by loosening the earth, destroying the grass and weeds, and at the same time throwing about the plant the fresh soil. With a pair of horses and Tull's machine one man seated behind his team was able to do the work of a dozen men with the ordinary hoe. About the time that Tull gave the world his "horse hoe," says the Detroit News, a Spaniard, Leonardo, invented the first machine for sowing grain.

Use Tides for Power.
Scarcity of coal since the French invasion of the Ruhr valley has got the Germans to thinking of ways to use the force of the tides for power. The chief difficulty seems to be that the north coast of Germany is very flat, and consequently that the available head of water is too low for practical use.—Scientific American

Curwensville's Own Column

At a meeting of the School Board Thursday evening a resolution was unanimously passed asking the voters of this township to pass upon the question of increasing the present bonded indebtedness some $10,000 at the November election. This sum is not asked for the purpose of erecting another new building, but for enlarging the high school building. The school question has reached a point when this borough must enlarge present buildings or erect another new one, and the sensible thing to do is to enlarge the high school building, as there is plenty of vacant ground that could be applied to that end. Curwensville has a greater proportion of pupils attending the public schools for its population than either Altoona or Clearfield. The town has a population of less than 3,000 souls, and those attending school number 1,000. It costs per year to educate each pupil about $90. In Altoona, and other large towns the cost per pupil reaches in the neighborhood of $97. At the State street school there are herded in one room some 14 pupils, entirely too many for the space allowed by state law. Therefore the sum of $20,000 to build additional rooms is not too much for the borough voters to grant the School Board at the November election.

Ira Shaffer attended a birthday party at the home of his son, George M. Shaffer in Pike township the other day. A peculiar incident of the gathering was that there were four members of the Shaffer connection present whose birthdays came within a period of 25 days of each other, and their ages ranged from 15 to 77 years.

Joseph Rhine, a miner aged 73 years died at his Gramplan home on Tuesday. He was an Austrian by birth. His funeral was held from the church at Gramplan on Friday afternoon. Interment in Gramplan cemetery.

Miss Julia Powell entertained a number of her young lady friends in the parlors occupied by her mother last evening.

Henry, Ronald & Holton have rented the building formerly occupied by the William Gates hardware store on Fifth street, and will utilize the same as a garage and automobile sales establishment.

TRUE FACTS IN ANSWER TO KEPHART'S STATEMENT

Warren Kephart, a member of Curwensville School Board, prints a lengthy article in the Progress, under date of Sept. 18th in which he attempts to refute certain statements relative to contract for furnishing coal to said Borough School Houses. In his first statement he says that "C. O. Norris seemed very much put out because the contract was let to Ed. Moore for $3.50 per ton." This statement is absurd, from the fact that Mr. Norris did not ask for the contract at all, only at a 10c less cost than the Moore contract. C. O. Norris' bid being $3.40 per ton. Speaking of last year's contract, the fact is that Mr. Norris did not ask for a contract but furnished coal to Ed. Moore at $2.75 per ton. Mr. Moore had made deals for his coal from other mines until Feb. of last year, when coal was $5.00 and $6.00 per ton on car. They refused Mr. Moore's coal and he came to Mr. Norris for coal to fill his contract at $5.50 per ton and he sold him coal at $2.75 per ton to enable Mr. Moore to fill his contract, so Mr. Norris wishes the public to know who stood back of Mr. Moore's contract last year, and Mr. Moore also borrowed coal from the Tannery to supply the school houses, an dthe C. O. Norris furnished the coal to pay back the Tannery when he also had a contract with the Crescent Refractories Co. for his entire output. When M. Kephart enumerates persons who bid on this year's coal, he neglects to state that Henry Hile also had a bid in for $3.25 per ton for the Borough Schools. Is this saving money for the Tax Payer?

No difference what Ed Moore did last year, and the amount of coal (200 tons) Kephart claims was burned and that $20.00 was saved to the tax payers by the difference between the bids last year, is nothing less than a ridiculous statement. Now there were four bonafide bids for furnishing coal this year, namely, Ed. Moore, $3.50; P. E. Smith, $3.50; C. O. Norris, $3.40 and Henry Hile, $3.25. Now the tax payer wants to know why the School Board ignored the lower bid and accepted the higher one? Was it because Moore wheeled a few barrows full of coal in an emergency? While Mr. Kephart may deem it a convenient explanation of giving this contract to the highest bidder, it does not satisfy the people who pay the taxes.

In reference to article in Progress, Sept. 18th, the same states that "C. O. Norris was a member of the School Board last year," and he wishes to state that his time expires January 1st, 1922 and was not a member of the School Board last year, and why would C. O. Norris want to furnish the School Board when his coal was all contracted by the Crescent Refractories Co. And also wishes to state there was no bid asked by C. O. Norris last year for the School Houses. Henry G. Hile had put one low bid in and found that the price of coal and labor was too high and could not furnish it, then he put in the second bid at a little higher price, though it was below Ed Moore's bid which was $3.50, and Mr. Hile's second bid was not considered at all last year. Mr. Kephart also says frankly that they used 200 tons coal last year. C. O. Norris went to the authorities and procured the exact tonnage used last year, which was 257 tons, though Mr. Kephart shows a saving of $20.00 over C. O. Norris' bid but the tonnage was not at all correct. There is one more building added to furnish with coal this year and you can see there is more than $20.00 to be saved on C. O. Norris' bid when you have the facts and figures, and there would be more money saved to the tax payer if Henry Hile's bid had been considered, or a total saving of $64.25.

C. O. NORRIS
Curwensville, Pa., Sept. 21st 1922.

The Curwensville public schools opened with a larger enrollment this year than ever before. Pupils to the number of 772 were enrolled below the high school and 177 in the high school, making a total of 949. Last year during the first month 753 were enrolled below the high school and 133 in the high school, making a total of 886. By the end of the first month the enrollment will reach 1000. The compulsory attendance takes effect the first week of October and this will bring quite a number in who are not in school now. The opening of the Ridgeview annex has relieved present congestion and the schools start off this year with much less trouble than last year.

The first literary society will meet Friday night, October 6th. The program will be conducted by the Freshman class. On account of the large enrollment in the high school this year it was found necessary to divide the high school into four literary societies, Freshman, Sophomore, Junior and Senior.

garet Rhodes, secretary; Dorothy Bixler, treasurer; Samuel Cross and Kay Wrigley, student managers. Juniors: Clifford Kephart, president; Joseph Errigo, vice president; Helen Traister, secretary; Edith Benetti, treasurer; Al Mumma and Orville Johnston, student managers. Sophomores: Richard Richards, president; Frederick Smith, vice president; William McClure, secretary; Margaret Rankin, treasurer; William McClure and Bertie Bloom, student managers.

The first game of football will be played with Falls Creek High School on Saturday of this week. Coach James Black is well pleased with the squad this year and is anticipating a good football year.

Principal Grant Norris says that something will be doing at Irvin Park in the near future. Whether the auditorium can be finished for basketball this year is doubtful, but the dirt will be flying by snowflake time. The Curwensville High School is taking considerable pride in the outcome and promise of last year's class. They are engaged as follows: Phil Brown, teaching; Lucinda Clark, registered as a graduate nurse; Bertha Evans, registered as a graduate nurse; Mary Harley, teaching; Joe Hipps, Pittsburgh College of Pharmacy; Robert Humphries, State College; William Kittelberger, Lehigh University; Mildred Korb, teaching; Sidney Korb, Dickinson College; Dorothy LaRock, teaching; David McKinley, State College; Helen Newcomer, at home; Wava Newcomer, at home; Charley W. Norris, Dickinson College; Mary Phillips, teaching; Lee Smith, business college; Harold Starr, teaching; Marjorie Wall, teaching; Viola Way, teaching; Alfarretta Way, proposed graduate nurse college; Hugh G. Norris, Dickinson College; Mary Alice Thompson, graduate student.

Look the above class over and what they are doing and then conclude what the Curwensville High School has done for them in shaping ideals and stimulating ambitions.

WOODLAND

Miss Annis Chappel is visiting relatives in New York.

A. E. Woolridge, whose illness was noted in last week's letter, is so far improved as to be able to be around town again.

Vida Joyce, the little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Palmer, was two years old on Tuesday and a number of little friends of similar age were invited to help her celebrate her birthday. Needless to say they had a fine time and caused a lot of amusement with their childish pranks.

Mrs. M. I. Forney of Phillipsburg visited relatives here on Wednesday.

Mrs. J. N. Palmer is seriously ill at McGurk's sanitarium, Phillipsburg.

Mrs. H. O. Barger and Mrs. John Woolridge were Clearfield visitors on Wednesday.

Mrs. Lee Heath and Miss Elizabeth Woolridge, both of whom have been ill with typhoid fever, are now on the way to recovery.

William Kugler who recently established a filling and repair station on Main street near the Bungalow school is building a 50 by 50 foot addition to his garage.

The hill east of Woodland, commonly known as Pine Top, is becoming very dangerous for cars traveling westward, especially during or after a rain. On Sunday last three cars were wrecked there. One evening of this week three more cars were wrecked and five more the next morning. Fortunately no one was seriously injured.

JEWETT SIX

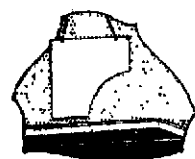

PAIGE BUILT

The New Jewett Six Brougham, $1325

Lasting Lustre, Baked Enamel Finish by New Process

QUITE the smartest car the season has produced—just the achievement you'd expect from Paige engineers. Jewett Six Brougham at but $1325 gives peak quality—the best value the Paige organization ever produced for the money.

How Jewett Brougham steel body panels are enamel dipped for separate baking

The lasting lustre finish is the result of a new process. Each steel body panel is separately dipped three times in finest black enamel, then baked—then separately fastened to the extra-large, extra-strong wood body frames. Wood frames—not steel—because wood reduces noise, absorbs vibration. Lift the rear seat cushions. See the steel body panels enameled on the inside, too—no rusting possible. Never before could this finish be placed on a wood frame body. The intense baking heat would burn the frames. But separate pre-enameling and baking give you a car of lasting lustre. It gives the Jewett Six Brougham the rich black gloss all over the car, seen only on fenders of other cars. Trust Paige to contribute such a step toward lasting good looks!

Full, roomy comfort for five—extra long leg room in front. Two individual front seats which both fold forward, give easy entrance and exit from either side. Rear seat is of full width for three. Interior finish the kind you'll be proud of. Upholstered in velour. Remove the rear seat cushion and there's room for sample trunk or cumbersome baggage. Commodious trunk on rear is extra well made.

Like all Jewetts the Brougham has full 50 horse-power, Paige-built motor that fills the hood.

Hollow crank-shaft high pressure oiling system gives silent smoothness and long life. Paige-Timken axles front and rear; ball-bearing steering spindle; 6-inch-deep frame. Ruggedness throughout that explains Jewett's acknowledged stamina.

Jewett Brougham performs like all Jewetts—goes from 5 to 25 miles an hour in 7 seconds, in high gear; from 2 to 60 miles an hour, in high. Passes most any car on any hill. Gear shifting is rare, and easy when you do shift.

Business men, salesmen, farmers, wives with children to look after—everyone will welcome this new Jewett Brougham. It is smart in appearance—permanently good looking. No apologies for the looks of the finish—requires no attention but washing.

We are proud to have you drive this new 5-passenger Brougham yourself for any kind of a test you want—performance, comfort, good looks, safety and for convenience.

Weak Germany Can't Pay Strong Germany Won't Pay France Still Has Her Major Problem of Reparations to Solve--Must Protect Her Own Rights.

By J. W. T. MASON
(Written for the United Press)

New York, Sept. 22. (United Press.)—Surrender by Germany in the Ruhr and the cessation of passive resistance by the Ruhr miners will not solve the grave problem making the Germans pay the war indemnity.

France will have to engage in still further antagonisms against Germany before normal relations in Europe are restored.

The Ruhr resistance has marked only one phase of France's problem. The major fact of the reparations crisis, from France's standpoint, is that a weak Germany can't pay and a strong Germany won't pay.

France has got to solve the difficulty of allowing Germany to become strong once more and at the same time being in a position to make a strong Germany pay. That means the reparations problem for France is now exclusively a problem of guarantees.

There is no possible room for doubt but that the Germans will refuse to pay the war indemnity at any time they feel themselves in a position to do so without peril to themselves. They might even take a perilous chance if it presented itself.

Want Germany Crushed

The French government realize the fact fully. The French people insist that Germany pay her reparations assessment so that France will not have to be taxed for reconstruction. There is a group of French industrialists and imperialists who would be willing to forego the indemnity, if Germany could be crushed.

But that would mean making the French people pay, and would arouse their resentment, even though France were to expand territorially and a few French industrial magnates were to reap fortunes. Furthermore, it would probably be impossible to push the 65 million Germans permanently.

The French Government, therefore, is not in a position to carry out, except for a limited time, the policy of keeping Germany weak. There will eventually be a strong Germany, and a strong Germany will never pay a penny more of the indemnity than can be wrung from the Berlin government.

By forcing the German miners to work in the Ruhr, France will not find security for herself. The more the Germans work, the stronger Germany will be and the nearer will come the time when Berlin may call the indemnity terms a scrap of paper. France will lose the indemnity in the end unless guarantees of payment are adequate, and no guarantees will ever be adequate that are not backed purely and simply by physical force.

French Army Necessary
Occupation of German territory until terms of so object a surrender are formulated, are necessary. But there must be a French army always ready for occupation and Germany must continue to be kept threatened and in no way allowed to military rebuff. Some small occupational units France will have to keep within the German territory as a constant warning to the people.

The French government, too, will have to hold over the heads of the Germans the menace of another Ruhr conquest and the no less effective threat of breaking up Germany into individual independent states. Otherwise, the Germans will soon forget the Ruhr lesson and will be evading payments again.

No nation, in Germany's condition, could be trusted to abide by written terms of so object a surrender while a chance remained to repudiate the financial clauses. If France doesn't protect her own interests, no other country will do it for her.

MAXWELL-CHALMERS CUTS CREDIT TO CHRYSLER

His Manufacturing Ingenuity, Plus Corporation's Merchandising and Sales Ability States as Reasons.

The manufacturing and sales ingenuity of Walter P. Chrysler, chairman of the board of directors of the Maxwell Motor Corporation, is credited by officials of the corporation for making possible the material reductions in the prices of all models of Maxwell and Chalmers cars, recently announced.

Reductions on the Maxwell range up to $200 on the touring and roadster and on the Chalmers to $100 on the seven passenger custom type sedan. The average reduction on Maxwell cars were $64 on each of the nine models and $69 on the five Chalmers cars. The smallest Maxwell reduction was $4 and $46 was the lowest reduction on a Chalmers model. The new prices make both the good Maxwell and improved Chalmers cars the lowest at which they have ever sold.

"Mr. Chrysler, through his own ability in manufacturing, and that of his organization in merchandising and selling, has succeeded in recent months in effecting economies both in the manufacture and distribution of Maxwell and Chalmers, and at the same time adding numerous improvements in the cars," said Arthur E. Baker, vice president of the corporation, in commenting on the reductions. This Maxwell-Chalmers action has been the subject of considerable discussion among motor car dealers and by the general public.

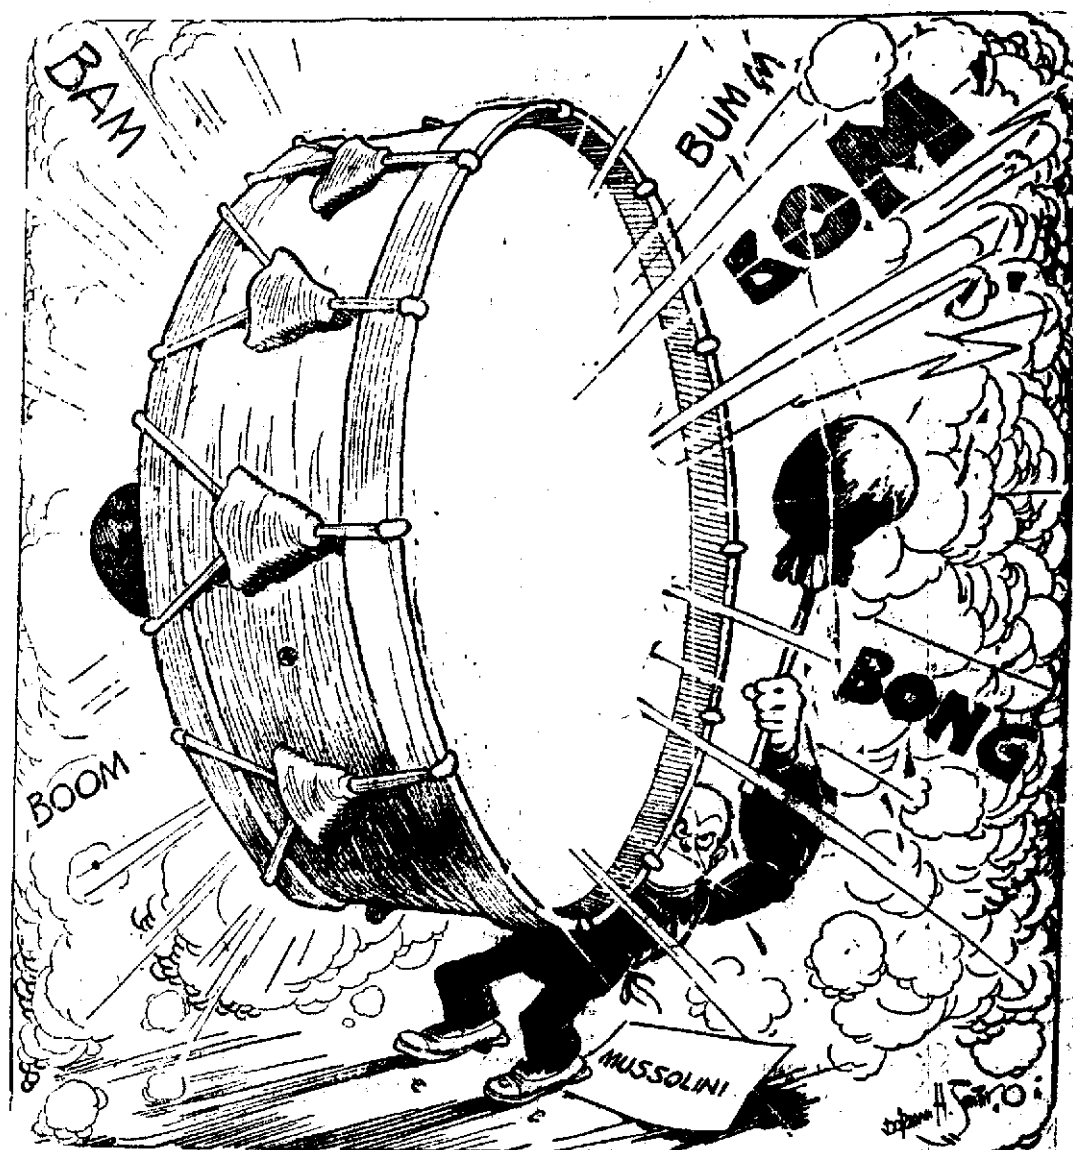

The reductions, Mr. Baker pointed out, were made at a time when increases in automobile prices were forecast by many observers. "For that reason, especially, they stand out as a remarkable tribute to the ability of Mr. Chrysler, his engineers and the Maxwell-Chalmers sales organization," he added.

"That the public was quick to appreciate the greater value now offered by both Maxwell and Chalmers is convincingly shown in factory sales and shipping records since the announcement. Hundreds of dealers are reporting unprecedented September business."

ODDS AND ENDS
AND THINGS

By J. D. G.

Harry W. Shoemaker, owner of the Altoona Tribune, whose wildlife stories and historical articles have attracted wide attention, attended the famous Frenchville picnic last month and in a recent issue of the Tribune ran the following:

How many Altoonians were at the fifty-second annual picnic at Frenchville, Clearfield county, last month? Possibly more than we think, for the crowd was a large one and familiar faces are apt to be missed in so vast a throng.

As the Frenchville picnic in Central Pennsylvania is an institution we had better tell what it is. Nearly one hundred years ago a group of colonists from Picardy, Normandy and Haut-Marne, in France, arrived in Philadelphia tradition has it that they walked all the way from the port of debarkation to the wilds of Clearfield county, then an almost unbroken forest. They were successful pioneers, clearing many fine farms, establishing grist mills and saw mills, founding the towns of Frenchville, Coudley and LeConte's Mills, but above all erecting a handsome Roman Catholic church, built of the native mountain sandstone, St. Mary's-on-the-Mountain. They became Americanized quickly, for they were of the same type and temperament of the native mountain people, who themselves are largely of French blood, though of the Huguenot strain, the same dark angular, active characters who made ideal woodsmen, artisans and hunters, meeting the needs of frontier conditions.

The colony flourished and its members became well known in agricultural, commercial and political life, but especially as loggers, raft men and ice-cutters. The French tongue of their fathers was carefully guarded, and today they speak as perfect French as can be heard in any Pennsylvania salon, yet their English in the familiar vernacular of the Pennsylvania mountains.

This year's picnic was a day more like October than August. The Keweenaw wind or northwest wind was blowing, there were swirling white clouds in the sky, the air was brisk, and here and there maples showed autumnal coloring.

In the fifty-two years of Frenchville picnics it is said there have only been two rainy days, 1922 and 1877. That favorably sugary brings a big crowd, who are almost sure of protecting their summer finery. Under the grove of giant hemlocks, oaks and beeches, a vast assemblage could be seen most of them eager to enjoy the grand dinner served by the ladies of Frenchville, for which they are justly famous. It was a sumptuous repast and all were fully and carefully served. After the dinner, the dancing commenced, and the mountain couples began their old fashioned square dances to the music of a local orchestra, with a leader to "call the figures." The writer, of these lines, having heard that some Pinchots were buried in the local cemetery, which seemed reasonable, as our great people's governor's ancestors came from Picardy, in 1816, strolled across the fields toward the burial ground, which looks off at a scene of rolling hills, rising into a distinct, distant horizon as fair a view as ever the first settlers gazed upon in their own beautiful Valley of the Somme. Few cemeteries in Pennsylvania have a grander prospect, or one less American in nature. The view from the Frenchville cemetery is essentially French. It has absorbed the spiritual longings of those buried there in its exquisite, unreal, far away beauty. France in Clearfield county; the souls of the old pathfinders have found their way home in death!

But we looked in vain for buried Pinchots, though we saw many other names characteristically Norman, or of Picard or Haut-Marne origin—Billotte, Demonge, Royer, Ageron, La Motte, Fontenoy, Mignot, Rougeux, Piard, Hugar, Surguy, Vicard Marot, Longin, Renaud, Beauséjour, Beuret, the last probably the original French form of the name of the Huguenot ancestor of our illustrious General Frank D. Beary, at Harrisburg. Among the graves were those of several veterans of the Civil war, and the World war. One of a World war "buddie" was particularly touching: "Nestor Billotte, wounded in the Argonne, November 10; died November 11, 1918." This son of France in Clearfield county repaid the time worn debt on Armistice day in the motherland.

Nearby was a simple marker which read: "Cora St. Clair, wife of Harry

St. Clair, died June 27, 1884, aged 22 years," probably the wife of the general St. Clair, who for years drove the stage between Snow Shoe and Karthaus, yet whose heart was always among the pines of the distant Frenchville, beyond the Knobs. Through an avenue of pines we returned to the picnic ground, a lady the crowd had begun to split up into groups: "Pompey" McGinnis, well known in Altoona, and the most famous hunter in all of Clearfield county, was surrounded by an eager group of youths, who listened with humble interest to his further stories. A tin-type artist was reaping quite a harvest in an open space on the grove, where several years before some of the old al hemlock had been felled, through some one's thoughtlessness, evidently marred the beauty of the park, he took a good put in the old al days, while a crowd of people at Frenchville. City folks from Altoona, Clearfield, Tyrone and Philipsburg had taken possession of the dancing floor and were calling for the modern

Made Gardener Barber.

A major in a certain English regiment had a great contempt for incense of any kind, and was also somewhat impatient. A sergeant could not find him that he could get no one to undertake the duty of barber in the company. "Is there no gardener in the company?" asked the major. "See if you can find one, and send him to me." The man was duly sent, but on receiving orders to act as barber, ventured to expostulate. "Why?" cried the major. "If you can't do it!"

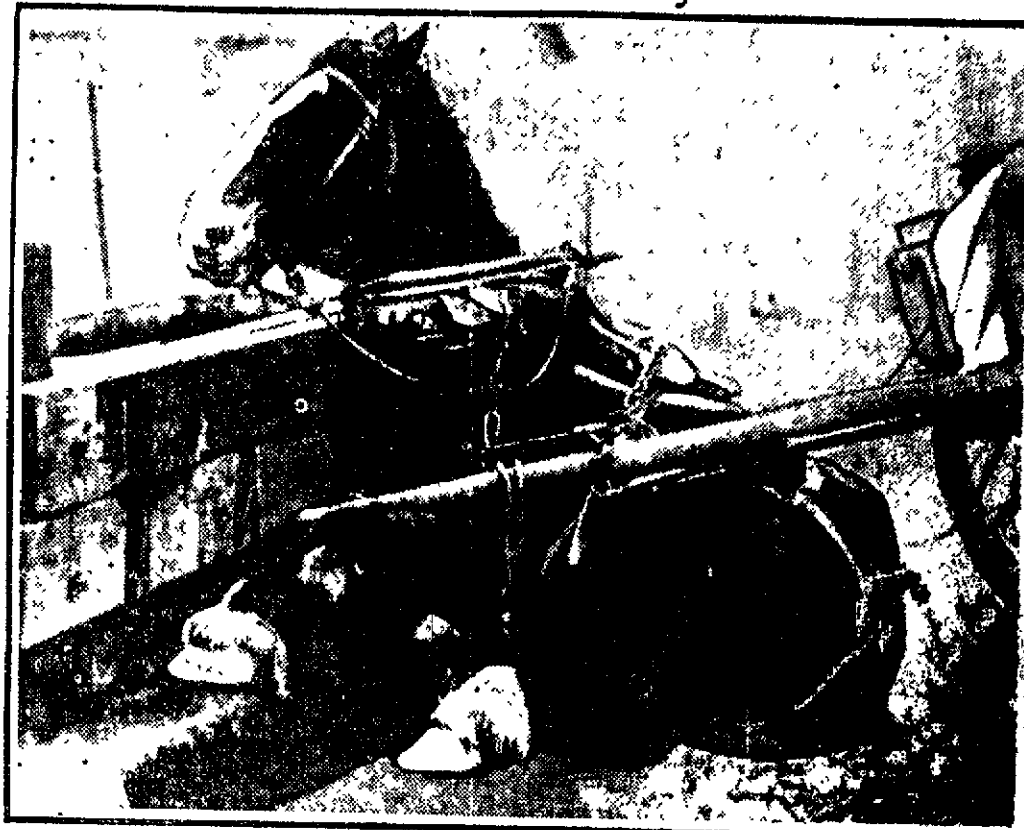

Power of a Smile.

A young woman carelessly tossed an apple core out of the auto she was riding in and a motorcycle cop who was speeding past received it full in the face. He stopped and turned to her with a scowl, and the young woman had visions of an interview with the magistrate. But she smiled at him and her smile won his heart, for he said with a grin, "Lady, I'm glad you are not a bricklayer," and remounting his wheel he sped away.—Boston Transcript.

THANK YOU!

and again THANK YOU!

THANKS—our most sincere thanks—good people of Clearfield and vicinity, for your amazing response to our Opening Day invitation, in the face of such inclement weather. A thousand thanks for the many expressions of good will from our friends. The appreciation of our efforts to make this, indeed, an "Enchanted Land of Fashions," as voiced by the expressions of admiration of our new store and our merchandise, from hundreds of visitors, was the final drop in our cup of joy.

THANKS to our faithful assistants and co-workers, whose untiring efforts for weeks past, made possible the systematic arrangement of the thousands of pieces of merchandise so that during this first day of the store being formally opened there was no delay in entertaining customers.

And just a word about ourselves. For the past eighteen years, LEONARDSON'S has been a household word throughout this section. From small beginnings our Store has grown to its present vast proportions. We number among our patrons many people who, before the bringing of this store to its present plane, used to go to larger cities for their merchandise. Now they come to LEONARDSON'S.

A SERVICE as nearly perfect as possible, giving always ONE HUNDRED CENTS OF VALUE for every dollar expended, showing the NEW THINGS FIRST, doing by others as we would be done by, is now, and always has been, the policy of LEONARDSON'S. Welcome here, any time, whether only looking or buying.

BRIDGE OVER ANDERSON CREEK IN BORO OF CURWENSVILLE COLLAPSES EARLY TODAY; TWO AUTOMOBILES GO DOWN WITH WRECK

Structure Erected By County In 1899, Following the June Flood, Finally Succumbs to Ravages of Time and Neglect and Drops Into the Creek With a Great Crash at 10 o'clock This A. M.

OCCUPANTS OF CARS ESCAPE INJURY

The county bridge across Anderson Creek at the upper end of Curwensville, which has been creaking and groaning and dropping big rusted wheels with every passing vehicle, neglected and forlorn, the past three or four years, endeavoring to hold out until the new state road between Curwensville and Grampian was completed, decided that ancient, rusty old iron could stand no more and about 10 o'clock this morning bowed its senile head in grief and shame, and with a final creak of cracked protest, dropped down into the creek's bed.

The ancient and neglected old relic had her boots on when she fell, as two touring cars and a coal truck were on the bridge when she dropped off the abutments. There were several people in each of the automobiles when the bridge caved in, but like the faithful old wagon she was before she done broke down, the old bridge settled gently down under the machines, carrying them safely to the creek bed with the result that while the poor old bridge is a total wreck, nobody got hurt. The automobiles were smashed up some.

The bridge was erected by the Nelson & Buchanan Bridge Company of Pittsburgh, following the June flood of 1899. The County Commissioners who had the same erected were Messrs Geo. I. Thompson, James Savage and Jacob Mock.

The automobiles on the bridge at time of the bridge's collapse were owned by John Wood and a man named Ziggers, both of near Grampian.

There were five people in the Ziggers car, all of whom had very narrow escapes from injury as one of the overhead cross beams dropped across the wreck just ahead of their car. Had the car been five feet further along the beam would have fallen across the car.

CLEARFIELD FAIR TO BE FINEST GIVEN IN LOCAL HISTORY

Exhibits to Be Bigger and Better Than Ever Before; Amusements Will Also Be Greater.

OPENS SEPT. 25TH.

The Clearfield County Agricultural Society and Clearfield Fair Association have everything about in readiness for the greatest fair ever held in this section of Pennsylvania. That better than ever before goes without saying and is apparent to every person going inside the park enclosure even now.

Manager Callahan and the board of managers have been hard at work the past three months and have everything in readiness for the big exhibition, even down to the smallest detail.

The exhibits will be far and away ahead of even last year's remarkable list and display and require much additional space for their showing, while the amusement program has also been greatly enlarged and will have something really worth while doing all the time during the four days of the fair which starts September 25th and ends September 28th.

There will be lost of music, lots of shows, lots of horse racing and lots of everything else generally found on the bill at county fairs, while a whole lot of out of the ordinary features will also be provided during the week.

In addition to the day sessions there will also be evening entertainments consisting of band concerts, shows and other amusements each evening.

If you want to see the greatest county fair ever held in Central Pennsylvania come to Clearfield next week.

Navy Dirigible Is On Visit To Washington

Lakehurst, N. J. Sept. 22.—The United States Naval dirigible, ZR-1, left the Naval Air Station here at 10.30 o'clock, daylight time, to pay an official visit to Washington, D. C. The air ship was manned by a crew of five officers and twenty-five enlisted men.

The dirigible soared to an altitude of 4,000 feet and then turned its cigar shaped nose southwestward for her longest flight at forty knots an hour.

The ZR-1, upon reaching the capital will circle the Washington monument and the Lincoln memorial. An air visit to the White House will then be made, the ship dipping its giant prow in salute to the President.

After various maneuvers in Washington the air ship will fly to the Arlington National Cemetery to pay homage to the unknown soldier. A wreath will be dropped on the grave. A flight down the historic Potomac River to Mt. Vernon is then scheduled. The ZR-1 will fly over the tomb of George Washington, dipping its nose three times in a salute.

KLANIS BEATEN SAYS GOVERNOR WALTON IN OKLAHOMA MIX-UP

Klan Dragon Jewett Is Arrested in Governor's Fight Against the "Invisible Empire."

FLOGGING CHARGE

Oklahoma City, Okla. Sept. 22.—"The Ku Klux Klan is beaten," Governor J. C. Walton declared today following the arrest of N. C. Jewett, Klan Dragon for the organization in Oklahoma, and other sensational developments in the Executive's warfare on the "Invisible Empire."

Warrant for arrest of Jewett was issued by prosecutor J. K. Wright, who admitted he had personally paid an initiation fee in the Klan.

Evidence on which Jewett's arrest was based was given the Military Court of Inquiry by Dr. A. A. Maupin, dentist, and former Klan member. He said Jewett admitted to him that he had "laid on the lash" personally in the flogging of E. R. Merri man.

The Governor is still determined that the meeting of the Oklahoma Legislature, called for next Wednesday to start impeachment proceedings against him, will never assemble.

Walton said he had information to prove "beyond a doubt" that W. B. McBee, leader in the move for the special session of the Legislature is an active member of the Duncan, Oklahoma Klan.

The Governor accused the "Klan kept press" of Oklahoma refused to print the facts developed by the Military Court of Inquiry. However, he said a great many newspapers outside of the state were giving splendid service.

In order to get the facts of martial law developments before the people of the state, Jimmy Mathers of Ardmore, plans to have thousands of circulars printed and dropped over the state, telling of the revelations against the Klan, obtained by the Military Court.

The Governor said he would prove the Klan shipped its records to Atlanta, Georgia, when the military investigation started.

Striking Pressmen Are Given Ultimatum

New York, Sept. 22.—An ultimatum to striking pressmen, who all but stopped publication of metropolitan newspapers for nearly a week has been announced by publishers and the national union.

The National and Publishers have signed an agreement which will guarantee the men better working conditions. This agreement will be put before the local union Sunday, according to arrangements made today, and the men will be granted an opportunity to return to work under the agreement or have their local union outlawed.

One. Wages will be increased $3.00 a week.

Two. Working hours will be reduced from 48 hours a week to 44 hours for both day and night to 45 hours for day and 41 hours for night shifts.

Three. Other points of dispute are to be settled by arbitration.

FOOTBALL PLAYERS AT CLEARFIELD IN GETTING IN SHAPE

Local Grid Warriors On the Warpath and Will Make Their Opponents Hustle to Beat Them

SEASON SCHEDULE

Football season soon under way. The Clearfield Grid Warriors are getting into shape. Although training started only a few weeks ago, Clearfield's Grid Warriors have been working hard for these two weeks and are coming along fine in their physical condition. They have been kept busy with charging, tackling, blocking, punting and kicking under the tutelage and planning of coach Fred H. Hest.

Today's practice was a slow and hard one, due to wet weather. Last evening after the session of the varsity team the coaches put the squad thru some hard physical work and scrimmages. Every man was kept on the jump from three o'clock till six-thirty. Next week sees the squad spending more time on signals and defense, with plenty of work on the dummy, and blocking. The game is full of pep and spirit and next week's game is expected to be a real test.

The Grid Warriors start Monday, and the game is every Sunday at 2 o'clock. The season schedule is as follows:

RUHR SITUATION IS GETTING WORSE

Berlin, Sept. 22.—The situation in the Ruhr is becoming constantly worse, according to information here. Some officials even predict a nation-wide outbreak inside of a month unless the Ruhr question is settled, and assert an outbreak may occur even if the Ruhr problem is liquidated in the near future.

Today's situation in Germany resembles that of 1918, when Germany's army admittedly had fought many months too long.

The conservative Germans fear the Ruhr war also has been overplayed by at least four months. They say the demand of Premier "Chambre" of France for Germany's complete and public capitulation is the only exit for the Government, unless it wishes to face a revolution similar to that which succeeded the armistice in 1918.

Whooping Cough Is Racking Local Kiddies

Nine cases of whooping cough developed in Clearfield during the past seven days and were placed under quarantine by the Board of Health, according to the report of Secretary Gaultin of the Health Board. One case of scarlet fever was also reported to the health authorities for the week.

There are at present a total of 23 cases of communicable disease under quarantine in the town, 21 of which are whooping cough. They are located as follows:

Whooping Cough, 21; Diphtheria, 1; Scarlet Fever, 1.

1st Ward—Whooping Cough, 3; 2nd Ward—Diphtheria, 1; Scarlet fever, 1; Whooping Cough, 2; 3rd Ward—Whooping Cough, 12; 4th Ward—Whooping Cough, 4.

KU KLUX KLAN PLAN NOTED TRAPPER ON BIG RALLY AT DUBOIS

DuBois, Pa., Sept. 22.—A widely heralded meeting of the Ku Klux Klan is scheduled for DuBois tonight, and it is declared that there will be thousands of Klansmen in this city for the affair, which continues over Sunday. It is declared that there will be no parade this evening, as was originally broadcasted, initiation of candidates being the only thing on the program.

According to a circular that was distributed throughout the city during Thursday night, there will be a public meeting at the Fairgrounds on Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock, at which time a man "who knows" and "should know" will tell what "you want to know and should know" about the Ku Klux Klan. There will also be a lady speaker. The circular states that everybody will be welcomed.

German Government Will End Its Passive Resistance In Ruhr

Berlin, Sept. 22.—The German government late today decided that passive resistance of the Ruhr must be ended without delay.

The decision was reached following a conference in which government leaders reviewed the internal situation and the Franco-Belgian reaction to Chancellor Stresemann's proposal for final abandonment of resistance, as made through the Belgian minister.

The decision was reached following morning, to decide in what form the public statement will be issued soon after the Reichstag reconvenes Wednesday.

Soft Pedal On At The Capital

President Coolidge Doesn't Intend to Have Some Wellmeaning Cabinet Officers Spill the Beans.

By LAWRENCE MARTIN
(United Press Staff Correspondent.)

Washington, Sept. 22.—They're stepping heavy on the soft pedal in Washington these days.

Just as many "conferences" are held by cabinet officers and the President as formally; but whereas these conferences used to produce a modicum of news and a great many views, which were duly passed on to the public for what they might be worth, there is now discernible a gradual but steady change.

The modicum of news is missing. The views are still given, it is true, but with great circumspection. Even they are much more restricted, and there are hints that before long some of these "conferences" may be dried up altogether, as sources of information and inspiration for those who attempt to tell the American people what their government is doing, and why.

All this has not happened by accident. There is, to observers here, a singularly clear design apparent in it. This design is simply to reduce to a minimum the chance of administration officials getting "the wires crossed" or "upsetting the apple cart" or "spilling the beans."

That is, Mr. Coolidge, catapulted by calamity into his present position, is facing the delicate task of carrying out policies of his predecessor—about which he knows in a general way, of course, but with the intricacies of which he is not yet fully familiar—and at the same time impressing himself so upon the consciousness of the country and of his party that he will be accorded the nomination in 1924.

President Playing Safe.

Another way of saying this is, that Mr. Coolidge doesn't want to be embarrassed, either in carrying out his conception of the Harding policies—or in maintaining his position as the logical nominee of his party in 1924, by too free utterances by some of his advisers and associates, who were closer to Mr. Harding than Mr. Coolidge was.

It would be embarrassing, to say the least, and it might be disastrous, to have one of the Harding cabinet say that a Harding policy meant one thing, when Mr. Coolidge construed it to mean something different.

The President has taken the lead in trying to prevent anything untoward like that happening. He has asked that speculation regarding his program, or his political future, be avoided.

He has appointed as his secretary, one of the most accomplished "soft peddlers" in the business—Bascom Siemp of Virginia, an older hand in the political game than Mr. Coolidge.

Secretary of the Treasury Mellon has suggested that he might have to forego his conferences with newspapermen because of what he termed misinterpretation of some of his remarks.

Mr. Hoover has shut up like a clam, though he never was very talkative.

"Cautious Cal" has, in other words, impressed his associates with something of his own reticence, and whatever other faults the administration may be found to have, talkativeness will not be among them.

FOUR MEN INJURED IN TANKER BLOW-UP

San Francisco, Cal., Sept. 22.—Four men were seriously injured when the boiler of the oil tanker William F. Herries exploded at Avon, near here, today.

The tanker, belonging to the Associated Oil Company, was towed out into Suisun Bay when fire, which followed the explosion, threatened to set off 46,000 barrels of distillate which was on board.

Fire tugs from San Francisco were sent to help fight the fire. Members of the crew stayed aboard the ship, fighting the flames which were making rapid headway.

GOVERNOR PINCHOT LOOKING INTO ACTS OF MAYOR CAUFFIEL

Harrisburg, Pa., Sept. 22.—Governor Pinchot has ordered a thorough investigation of the condition at Johnstown, Pa., where negroes and Mexicans are reported to have been ordered by the mayor to leave the town, it was stated at the Department of Justice here today.

The investigation was being made by Attorney General Woodruff, who said his department "was actively engaged in the matter."

Even they are much more restricted, and there are hints that before long some of these "conferences" may be dried up altogether, as sources of information and inspiration for those who attempt to tell the American people what their government is doing, and why.

All this has not happened by accident. There is, to observers here, a singularly clear design apparent in it. This design is simply to reduce to a minimum the chance of administration officials getting "the wires crossed" or "upsetting the apple cart" or "spilling the beans."

That is, Mr. Coolidge, catapulted by calamity into his present position, is facing the delicate task of carrying out policies of his predecessor—about which he knows in a general way, of course, but with the intricacies of which he is not yet fully familiar—and at the same time impressing himself so upon the consciousness of the country and of his party that he will be accorded the nomination in 1924.

President Playing Safe.

Another way of saying this is, that Mr. Coolidge doesn't want to be embarrassed, either in carrying out his conception of the Harding policies—or in maintaining his position as the logical nominee of his party in 1924, by too free utterances by some of his advisers and associates, who were closer to Mr. Harding than Mr. Coolidge was.

It would be embarrassing, to say the least, and it might be disastrous, to have one of the Harding cabinet say that a Harding policy meant one thing, when Mr. Coolidge construed it to mean something different.

The President has taken the lead in trying to prevent anything untoward like that happening. He has asked that speculation regarding his program, or his political future, be avoided.

He has appointed as his secretary, one of the most accomplished "soft peddlers" in the business—Bascom Siemp of Virginia, an older hand in the political game than Mr. Coolidge.

Secretary of the Treasury Mellon has suggested that he might have to forego his conferences with newspapermen because of what he termed misinterpretation of some of his remarks.

Mr. Hoover has shut up like a clam, though he never was very talkative.

"Cautious Cal" has, in other words, impressed his associates with something of his own reticence, and whatever other faults the administration may be found to have, talkativeness will not be among them.

GOVERNOR PINCHOT LOOKING INTO ACTS OF MAYOR CAUFFIEL

Harrisburg, Pa., Sept. 22.—Governor Pinchot has ordered a thorough investigation of the condition at Johnstown, Pa., where negroes and Mexicans are reported to have been ordered by the mayor to leave the town, it was stated at the Department of Justice here today.

The investigation was being made by Attorney General Woodruff, who said his department "was actively engaged in the matter."

Soft Pedal On At The Capital

President Coolidge Doesn't Intend to Have Some Wellmeaning Cabinet Officers Spill the Beans.

By LAWRENCE MARTIN
(United Press Staff Correspondent.)

Washington, Sept. 22.—They're stepping heavy on the soft pedal in Washington these days.

Just as many "conferences" are held by cabinet officers and the President as formally; but whereas these conferences used to produce a modicum of news and a great many views, which were duly passed on to the public for what they might be worth, there is now discernible a gradual but steady change.

The modicum of news is missing. The views are still given, it is true, but with great circumspection. Even they are much more restricted, and there are hints that before long some of these "conferences" may be dried up altogether, as sources of information and inspiration for those who attempt to tell the American people what their government is doing, and why.

All this has not happened by accident. There is, to observers here, a singularly clear design apparent in it. This design is simply to reduce to a minimum the chance of administration officials getting "the wires crossed" or "upsetting the apple cart" or "spilling the beans."

Japanese Relief Should All Be In By Monday Next

Need for Haste Is Emphasized In Red Cross Appeals; Urge People to Contribute Now.

MONEY IS NEEDED

The work of raising Clearfield chapter's quota for America's promised $5,000,000 Japanese relief fund, which was requested by President Calvin Coolidge, immediately following the destructive earthquake, fire and tidal wave which swept the island of Japan a few weeks ago, leaving death and destruction behind it, is being carefully looked after by Chairman Overly and his aids and while a goodly sum has been raised, the required $3,000 is not yet at hand.

It is the hope of those interested in this noble work of charity that the entire amount will be in hand and ready for transmission to national headquarters by Monday next. To this end a special appeal is made to all those who have not yet contributed to make their contributions today or not later than Monday.

Drop into any bank or leave your contribution with your merchant and same will be turned over to the committee in time to go in with the total contribution. There is need for haste in this matter as the money and relief work it will finance is badly needed.

Hand in your money now and let us have done with this matter, please.

The following are among the recent contributions received:—

Jno. W. Reed $25.00
Howard Stewart 5.00
Dr. G. J. Brett 5.00
H. J. Goss (Woodland) 5.00

Mr. Leonard Evans and little son are visiting with relatives in Berwindale, Pa.

GERMANY IS NEAR
TOTAL COLLAPSE

London, Sept. 22.—Prime Minister Baldwin is expected to confer with Foreign Minister Curzon today regarding what British statesmen consider of the "imminent collapse of Germany."

It was declared, however, that the latest set of German proposals for abandonment of passive resistance in the Ruhr on the condition that German citizens expelled and arrested be allowed to return to their homes does not apply directly to Great Britain since it was submitted through the Belgian Minister at Berlin.

Great Britain, however, is following the situation closely and understanding Chancellor Stresemann's proposal have been indicated officially to both Premier Lloyd George and Poincaré.

Baldwin was silent on the subject of his conference with Premier Poincaré in Paris, but well informed persons believe that the new German proposals may have been considered by the two Premiers, who were nearly as sanguine as the French about the truth of reports widely printed in Paris that Baldwin and Poincaré had reached a basis for agreement.

Great Britain will expect "any thing" to happen in Germany when the Stresemann Government finally is forced to announce publicly its complete capitulation.

Four Inches Of Snow
In Alberta, Canada

Edmonton, Alberta, Sept. 22.—A snow storm swept out of the north and left a four inch blanket on this region today.

The snow was so heavy that it took limbs off many of the shade trees along the city streets.

Late grain was flattened by the blast and harvesting was set back from one to two weeks.

Her Reason.

A woman advertised for a caretaker for her town home, and after interviewing a large number of applicants found one that suited her. "I'm not for giving me the job," said the man, "and might I ask you a question? You stated in the ad that you wanted a married man. Does that mean you have a husband in view for my wife?" "Oh," replied the woman, "I wanted a married man so as to be sure I got some one used to taking orders from a woman."

No More Peters.

There are more churches dedicated to St. Peter than to any other saint. But there has never been a Pope Peter! The custom, according to which Popes change their Christian names on their elevation, was introduced in A. D. 884 by Peter di Porcia. He felt that it would be presumptuous to have himself styled Peter the Second, so he took the name of Sigismund the Second. Following in the same line of sentiment, no Pope has ever retained or assumed the name of Peter.

The shattering of this dock threw a number of persons into the water. This picture was taken from the custom house at the Canadian Pacific docks.

LESSON FOR SEPTEMBER 23

TIMOTHY A GOOD MINISTER OF CHRIST JESUS

LESSON TEXT—Acts 16:1-3; Phil. 2:1-11. MAIN TEXT—"Be thou an example of the believers, in word, in conversation, in charity, in spirit, in faith, in purity."—1 Tim. 4:12.

PRIMARY TOPIC—A Boy Who Loved the Bible.
JUNIOR TOPIC—Timothy, Paul's Helper.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Timothy Trained to Serve.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—The Christian Ministry as a Life Work.

I. Timothy's Parentage (Acts 16:1). His father was a Greek and his mother a believing Jewess. On his mother's side at least, he had a godly ancestry. Usually the mother makes the son. Two generations of maternal piety grandmothers were back of Timothy. How thankful we ought to be to God for a godly ancestry. Christian heredity and training constitute the essential elements for a Christian life.

II. Timothy's Training (II Tim. 1:3; I Tim. 3:14-15).

His wise and faithful mother and grandmother carefully nurtured him in God's Word. He knew the Scriptures from his childhood through their training. The faith which came to him from his grandmother through his mother did not come through the laws of heredity, but through careful training and teaching. Grace is not received by the laws of heredity. The factors involved in his training were godly ancestors, a Christian home, and a diligent study of the Scriptures.

III. Timothy's Call (Acts 16:1-3). While on Paul's second missionary journey in company with Silas, Timothy was found at Lystra near Derbe. Perhaps he had been converted on Paul's first missionary journey, but hearing a favorable report of him by the brethren, Paul took and circumcised him so as not to offend the Jews, because his father was a Greek. This was not contrary to the decision of the Jerusalem council. It was a case where conciliation could be made without compromise of truth. From this time to the end of Paul's life, he and Timothy were boon companions. They were as a loving father and a dutiful son.

IV. Timothy's Character Retained.

1. Of a Retiring Disposition. II Tim. 1:1. Timothy had received a gift from God at the hands of the apostle, but it needed to be stirred up, that is, fanned into a flame. Such a temperament would mature in touch with a great personality like Paul. It is highly important that everyone store up the gift which God has given unto him. 2. Courageous. II Timothy 2:1-8. Having been stirred up, he was freed from the spirit of fear and deliberately identified himself with Paul in his sufferings and trial. Courage is greatly needed in doing the Lord's work. 3. Faithful. He tarried in the difficult field of Ephesus through many years. He was the only man of the needed fidelity to minister to the Philippians. (Philippians 2:20). The secret of his faithfulness in such a position was his fidelity to the Word of God.

V. Timothy's Ministry.

1. As a fellow-ministry with Paul. (Phil. 2:22). 2. As pastor of a church at Ephesus. Here he labored for many years tactfully meeting the difficulties of that great church. The Christian minister should believe in the Scriptures as God's Word and be able to rightly divide it so as to meet the needs of those who hear him. This is the only way to meet the difficulties that arise in the pastor's labors.

At Due to Christianity. "We live in the midst of blessings, but we are utterly insensible of their greatness, and of the source from which they flow. We speak of our civilization, our arts, our freedom, our laws, and forget entirely how large a share of all is due to Christianity. Not Christianity out of the page of man's history, and what would his laws have been?—what his civilization? Christianity is mixed up with our very being and our daily life; there is not a familiar object round us which does not wear its mark, not a being or a thing which does not wear a different aspect, because the light of Christian hope is on it, not a law which does not owe its truth and gentleness to Christianity, not a custom which cannot be traced, in all its holy and healthful parts, to the Gospel.

Responsibilities. Responsibilities gravitate to the person who can shoulder them and power flows to the man who knows how.—Hubbard.

Avoid Making Enemies. Those whom you cannot make friends of, avoid making enemies.—Epicurus.

The Weak. The weak may be joked out of anything but their weakness.—Zimmermann.

Good Things to Eat. It was old Aunt So-and-So whose visits were invariably joyous events because Aunt brought eleven kinds of good things to eat with her.

FORMER CLEARFIELD GIRL PRIZE BEAUTY

Manager Nixon of the Midway, located just outside of Philipsburg, has quite a stunt on for the pretty amusement park. He has arranged a visit for "Miss Philipsburg" and from "Miss Altoona" at the same time the Keystone Serenaders play for a dance on next Tuesday evening.

"Miss Philipsburg" is Miss Charlena Johnson in real life and is a former Clearfield girl. She won the beauty contest conducted by the Philipsburg post of the American Legion but did not compete in the contest at Atlantic City. "Miss Altoona" is Margaret Lillian Ross, who won the beauty contest conducted by the Altoona Mirror and participated in the contest at Atlantic City, where she made quite a hit. While "Miss Altoona" did not "cop" the beauty pageant, she did win a ribbon at the grand ball held following the contest and won honorable mention in the Bathing Beauty. "Miss Altoona" will wear the same gown in which she appeared at the Grand Ball at Atlantic City.

Tons of Hereschoes. At Troutridge, Pa., may be seen an immense pile of old hereschoes which have been collected in small quantities from various districts. The hereschoes are collected by the best of the hereschoes and are a great asset to the soil.

Political Paragraphs

ODELL HAUSER'S COLUMN

There is no time at which the presidential election is more good for statesmen than when they make good for him. Opponents Senators Pepper and Reed have large in his affections at the moment. They have done their duty during the present week.

It may be recalled that last week's paragraphs were devoted to a highly philosophical discussion of the presidential aspirations of Governor Pinchot as they might conflict with the presidential aspirations of President Coolidge.

A summary up of conclusions was that the Republican organization of Pennsylvania would do nothing to help Mr. Pinchot set his feet on the path of greater political honors, in fact, quite to the contrary, would set up any false guide post their ingenuity might suggest to lure him off into side paths that lead down hill.

In fact, not to put too fine a point upon it, the conclusion was that the Republican organization would not be for Governor Pinchot as a presidential candidate and would oppose his having anything whatsoever to do with the choosing of members of the Pennsylvania delegation to the Republican National Convention.

Who was it but Senators Pepper and Reed who obliged this week by a demonstration that the above forecast was a reasonably accurate one? They did it from Washington. For no reason at all that the innocent by-stander could observe, they suddenly became self-conscious. They scurried around the capital participating in what is always described as "a series of conferences." They saw the President. They saw Secretary of the Treasury Mellon, who is from Pennsylvania. They saw various and sundry other persons, to whom they doubtless gave considerable information and from whom they doubtless obtained much.

The high spot in the day's work came when the two senators issued a joint statement on the very thing we are interested in, namely, the Coolidge and the Pinchot presidential candidates.

Their statement began "we have no statement to make," which suggests that just before they made it they had heard someone singing "Yes, We Have No Bananas." It was a little statement and the principal burden of it lay was that a Pennsylvania Senator would of necessity have to devote the most serious deliberation to his attitude "If it be true, as rumored, that President Coolidge will consent to be a candidate for the nomination, and if it be true, as likewise rumored, that Governor Pinchot has presidential aspirations."

In other words Senators Pepper and Reed hit the big gong a reverberating boom and said: "Listen, world, we wish to go on record as not being able to go on record."

They professed themselves right out in public, with nobody of the visible empire urging them, as unable to choose between the ambition of their beloved President and their beloved Governor.

Queer, isn't it? The common or garden variety of spectator might not be able to judge what it was all about. He would know it meant something but he would get little clue to what that something was.

To start with an obvious fact, the action of the two senators and the men with whom they took council, shows the Republican state organization of Pennsylvania in the attitude of putting one finger in its mouth, scuffling an opposite foot, and with downcast eyes and tones of maidenly bashfulness, notifying the President and anyone else who happens to be looking its way, that it is waiting to be coaxed.

When you try to go much deeper than that, you are getting out beyond the life line. Several interpretations are possible to the incident. There will be no attempt to go into that exhaustively here, but two of the most important might be touched upon.

One possible interpretation is that the Republican organization of Pennsylvania was proceeding to the national capital where interest in the subject was most widespread, there to proclaim politely but withal firmly that national Republicanism need have no fear of anything but a "strictly regular" delegation from Pennsylvania to its next National Convention.

Or, to say the same thing in other words, it may have been intended as formal notice that wherever else the boom of Pinchot may flourish it will not flourish in his home state if the organization has anything to do with it—which it thinks it has.

Another interpretation is that the Republican organization of Pennsylvania wants something important from the Coolidge administration and is by this means setting about to get it. Under this interpretation this action might look like a side remark, not to Mr. Coolidge, of course, but to some one of his practical friends like Secretary Bascom Slem, for instance, which, translated into the vernacular of statesmanship, would run somewhat as follows:

"You want votes for Coolidge in the Convention. We've got them because we're not necessarily for this guy Pinchot. You know us, Al. Come across."

That is not a highly romantic or vastly exciting interpretation of the happening, but the more one thinks it over, the more one is inclined to reflect that nature is, after all, grand, and her wonders infinite.

Rather tending towards the first interpretation, however, is the fact that

Progress Editorial For Women

SAD HEARTS AND A CURE

By FLORECE DAVIES

"Nothing to live for!" A woman who had lost an idolized child made this declaration in a dry, tearless voice. To her it was fact. A beautiful home, a doting husband, scores of friends who would gladly have helped her to carry her load of bereavement do not count in her agonized hour. All the comforts with which she was surrounded, were as dust and ashes to her sore heart.

She refused to be comforted. She shut herself away with the dead child's little garments and toys. "Don't tell me time will cure the ache—it is worse this year than it was last," she would say with a despondent shake of the head.

There could be but one end to such persistent brooding over her sorrow. Melancholia—a sanatorium, home again, then a gradual decline and finally, after years of invalidism, the full period and the wreath at the doorway.

Another mother, joyous in her three babies, full of plans for their happy little lives, lost all of them in an epidemic that science understood less at that time than it does now. At first the broken hearted mother wept till it was feared that her eyes would lose their sight. Then, taking a long look away from her own sorrows, she came to realize the sad plight of the little despoiled child widows of India. "At the graves of my own little daughters I dedicated myself to them," she told an intimate friend long afterward. Her purse, her time, her strength, were freely spent. A trip through the orient resulted in a the two senators delivered their pronouncements immediately before a Primary Election at which there was opportunity for the organization to put the approving seal of action upon the spoken word of promise.

If there was anything at all shown by the general result of last Tuesday's Primary Election over the state, it was that the Republican machine of Pennsylvania is back in the saddle, and that, therefore, it is in the most advantageous position possible for it to be in if it intends to enforce a prohibition ordinance on Governor Pinchot's friends with regard to the Pennsylvania national delegation.

It will surprise no competent observer that the organization should once more be in the saddle. Rather would cause for surprise be furnished if it were not. Through the ages the course of "reform" movements has been spasmodic. A decisive victory is almost invariably followed by a more decisive defeat. In other words, it is but simple common sense to conclude that the men who have played politics twenty-four hours in the day and three hundred and sixty-five days in the year will win more often than the men who play it as amateurs and seldom play it right when they do play it.

Philadelphia affords a striking illustration. A "reform" mayor was elected four years ago and this year the old organization made practically a clean sweep with the largest plurality that has ever been registered.

The same thing happened elsewhere. In Allegheny County, Senator Leslie, who has during the last year been written out of state politics by observers who did not understand his connection with the friends of the friends of Secretary Mellon, bobs up with a full-fledged victory. State Treasurer Snyder did the same thing in Schuylkill County. Leslie and Snyder are the two most outspoken and conspicuous political enemies Governor or Pinchot has in Pennsylvania. He wished their defeat. He encouraged their opponents. But they won hands down.

And Philadelphia, Allegheny and

memorial hospital where abandoned famine sufferers and little girls whose life had been one long burden, grew young and strong under the care of American doctors and nurses.

At home again, the mother whose heart was big enough to take in the women and children across the ocean told other mothers what she had seen and heard. More money came to enlarge the faraway hospital. Other missionaries were sent. By and by in the nearby villages, happy new homes sprung up and new ways were taught to other fathers and mothers by the young men and women who had been reared at orphanage or hospital.

Scarcely a week went by that the little woman back in America, gray haired now, did not receive a letter from some of her big family in India. The big envelopes with the foreign stamps grew more and more frequent and at Christmas time and birthday celebrations, what wonderful parcels—lace from the girls in the orphanage—an inland tray from one of the boys in training—handkerchiefs like cobweb. But best of all, the loving messages, that told how life was made new for the sari-clad girls and the bright-eyed, deft-fingered boys.

"Nothing to live for?" When millions of boys and girls on each side of a great ocean need befriending? The woman who mothers so many over there and had found life rich and full to the last, laid down her pen the other day, after writing to one of her missionary friends. I was her last letter. Who will forge her own burden in helping to take her place?

Schuylkill are merely symptomatic of the general movement that went over the state. For the present, the vote is thoroughly tired of "reform." Every year the voter gets more and more presciently about what he will allow to be called "reform." You can no longer get by with what you use to in that sacred name—which I am sure delights "Uncle" Dave Lane of Philadelphia more than I can say.

In other words, the stage is set for real things. Either the organization will ooze in next spring, or there will be a fight that will lay the state open from end to end. Senators Pepper and Reed, the Siamese twins of Republican leadership, will be its prophets—but not its leaders.

WHAT IS BEING DONE FOR THE VETERANS OF THE WORLD WAR?

By EDWARD NELSON DINGLEY

Washington, D. C. Sept. 22.—Now that the nation is in the midst of the World War is being celebrated, it is interesting to know what the United States has done and is doing for the veterans.

The nation's debt for the war is a large sum of money, but it is being paid in a way that is not a burden to the people. The government has been able to pay the debt by the issue of bonds, and the interest on these bonds is being paid by the government.

In his message to the Senate July 22, 1921, he said: "In a personal as well as a public manner, which ought to be a pledge of good faith, I have recommended the policy of generous treatment of the nation's defenders, not as a part of any contract, nor as a payment of a debt which is owing, but as a mark of the nation's gratitude."

In fact, just what has the government done, largely since March 4, 1921, for the veterans of the World War?

The Veterans' Bureau was established August 9, 1921. Previous to this, compensation and insurance had been administered by the Bureau of War Risk Insurance in the Treasury Department, medical and hospital services by the United States Public Health Service, also in the Treasury Department; rehabilitation had been administered by the Federal Board of Vocational Training.

The establishment of the United States Veterans' Bureau is one of the epochs of veteran relief.

Fourteen district offices were established in 14 of the leading cities. Up to June 30, 1922, the records show a total of 850,487 compensation claims, and 179,176 insurance claims filed.

Disbursements on compensation claims allowed to June 30, 1922, amounted to $359,421,018.

Insurance claims allowed since the establishment of the Bureau have a commuted value of $1,348,994,311.

Retired awards amount to $244,605. Since June 12, 1917, Congress has appropriated $84,141,880 up to June 30, 1922, for the government agencies for relief of World War veterans.

June 30, 1922, there were 575,932 insurance policies in an amount of $3,234,974,940. Last year $42,211,000 were paid in insurance claims.

There have been requested more than 885,000 medical examinations, and all but about 1,000 have been attended to.

There are 13 Veterans' Bureau Hospitals for treatment of tuberculosis.

There are 10 hospitals for mental diseases.

There are 31 Veterans' Bureau general hospitals in addition. Total expenditures for hospital buildings is about $800,000,000.

There are 503,000 beneficiaries under the supervision of the nurses.

For medical and hospital services $68,977,000 was expended last year.

More than 100,000 veterans have entered the vocational and rehabilitation bureaus. Today more than 75,000 are in training, many receiving $15 a month. Four thousand have completed training and now are in gainful occupations.

From 1917 to June 30, 1922, Congress has appropriated about $1,758,000,000 for the care of the veterans of the World War.

ENTIRE VILLAGE BUILT
Only to Be Destroyed by Storm in
"The Old Homestead"

A village of forty or more houses, with an old homestead and its out-buildings on the outskirts, was built for "The Old Homestead," a Paramount picture which will be exhibited next Monday and Tuesday at the Driggs theatre. The old homestead was a beautiful structure with roof and rooms and between scenes the company assembled in the "living room" and amused themselves with games, reading and music.

At the finale of the story a terrific storm destroys the village, but leaves the old homestead intact. James

It is such letters as these that testify to the value of Lydia E. Pinkham's

"Horse Hoe" Invented in 1692.
The Englishman, Jethro Tull, in 1692, invented his "horse hoe," as he called it. Tull's machine was designed to assist the various plants by loosening the earth, destroying the grass and weeds, and at the same time throwing about the plant the fresh soil. With a pair of horses and Tull's machine one man seated behind his team was able to do the work of a dozen men with the ordinary hoe. About the time that Tull gave the world his "horse hoe," says the Detroit News, a Spaniard, Leonardo, invented the first machine for sowing grain.

Use Tides for Power.
Scarcity of coal since the French invasion of the Ruhr valley has got the Germans to thinking of ways to use the force of the tides for power. The chief difficulty seems to be that the north coast of Germany is very flat, and consequently that the available head of water is too low for practical use.—Scientific American

Curwensville's Own Column

At a meeting of the School Board Thursday evening a resolution was unanimously passed asking the voters of this township to pass upon the question of increasing the present bonded indebtedness some $10,000 at the November election. This sum is not asked for the purpose of erecting another new building, but for enlarging the high school building. The school question has reached a point when this borough must enlarge present buildings or erect another new one, and the sensible thing to do is to enlarge the high school building, as there is plenty of vacant ground that could be applied to that end. Curwensville has a greater proportion of pupils attending the public schools for its population than either Altoona or Clearfield. The town has a population of less than 3,000 souls, and those attending school number 1,000. It costs per year to educate each pupil about $90. In Altoona, and other large towns the cost per pupil reaches in the neighborhood of $97. At the State street school there are herded in one room some 14 pupils, entirely too many for the space allowed by state law. Therefore the sum of $20,000 to build additional rooms is not too much for the borough voters to grant the School Board at the November election.

Ira Shaffer attended a birthday party at the home of his son, George M. Shaffer in Pike township the other day. A peculiar incident of the gathering was that there were four members of the Shaffer connection present whose birthdays came within a period of 25 days of each other, and their ages ranged from 15 to 77 years.

The infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Buck, living on Gramplan road, died Thursday night and was buried Friday afternoon in Oak Hill cemetery.

George Larson, a son of Andrew and Betty Larson, died at Glen Richey Thursday afternoon after an illness of ten weeks with heart trouble, aged 25 years. The funeral will be held on Sunday. Interment of body in the Thompson cemetery.

Joseph Rhine, a miner aged 73 years died at his Gramplan home on Tuesday. He was an Austrian by birth. His funeral was held from the church at Gramplan on Friday afternoon. Interment in Gramplan cemetery.

Miss Julia Powell entertained a number of her young lady friends in the parlors occupied by her mother last evening.

Henry, Ronald & Holton have rented the building formerly occupied by the William Gates hardware store on Fifth street, and will utilize the same as a garage and automobile sales establishment.

TRUE FACTS IN ANSWER TO KEPHART'S STATEMENT

Warren Kephart, a member of Curwensville School Board, prints a lengthy article in the Progress, under date of Sept. 18th in which he attempts to refute certain statements relative to contract for furnishing coal to said Borough School Houses. In his first statement he says that "C. O. Norris seemed very much put out because the contract was let to Ed. Moore for $3.50 per ton." This statement is absurd, from the fact that Mr. Norris did not ask for the contract at all, only at a 10c less cost than the Moore contract. C. O. Norris' bid being $3.40 per ton. Speaking of last year's contract, the fact is that Mr. Norris did not ask for a contract but furnished coal to Ed. Moore at $2.75 per ton. Mr. Moore had made deals for his coal from other mines until Feb. of last year, when coal was $5.00 and $6.00 per ton on car. They refused Mr. Moore's coal and he came to Mr. Norris for coal to fill his contract at $5.50 per ton and he sold his coal at $2.75 per ton to enable Mr. Moore to fill his contract, so Mr. Norris wishes the public to know who stood back of Mr. Moore's contract last year, and Mr. Moore also borrowed coal from the Tannery to supply the school houses, an the C. O. Norris furnished the coal to pay back the Tannery when he also had a contract with the Crescent Refractories Co. for his entire output. When M. Kephart enumerates persons who bid on this year's coal, he neglects to state that Henry Hile also had a bid in for $3.25 per ton for the Borough Schools. Is this saving money for the Tax Payer?

No difference what Ed Moore did last year, and the amount of coal (200 tons) Kephart claims was burned and that $20.00 was saved to the tax payers by the difference between the bids last year, is nothing less than a ridiculous statement. Now there were four bonafide bids for furnishing coal this year, namely, Ed. Moore, $3.50; P. E. Smith, $3.50; C. O. Norris, $3.40 and Henry Hile, $3.25. Now the tax payer wants to know why the School Board ignored the lower bid and accepted the higher one? Was it because Moore wheeled a few barrows full of coal in an emergency? While Mr. Kephart may deem it a convenient explanation of giving this contract to the highest bidder, it does not satisfy the people who pay the taxes.

In reference to article in Progress, Sept. 18th, the same states that "C. O. Norris was a member of the School Board last year," and he wishes to state that his time expires January 1st, 1922 and was not a member of the School Board last year, and why would C. O. Norris want to furnish the School Board when his coal was all contracted by the Crescent Refractories Co. And also wishes to state there was no bid asked by C. O. Norris last year for the School Houses. Henry G. Hile had put one low bid in and found that the price of coal and labor was too high and could not furnish it, then he put in the second bid at a little higher price, though it was below Ed Moore's bid which was $3.50, and Mr. Hile's second bid was not considered at all last year. Mr. Kephart also says frankly that they used 200 tons coal last year. C. O. Norris went to the authorities and procured the exact tonnage used last year, which was 257 tons, though Mr. Kephart shows a saving of $20.00 over C. O. Norris' bid but the tonnage was not at all correct. There is one more building added to furnish with coal this year and you can see there is more than $20.00 to be saved on C. O. Norris' bid when you have the facts and figures, and there would be more money saved to the tax payer if Henry Hile's bid had been considered, or a total saving of $64.25.

C. O. NORRIS
Curwensville, Pa., Sept. 21st 1922.

The Curwensville public schools opened with a larger enrollment this year than ever before. Pupils to the number of 772 were enrolled below the high school and 177 in the high school, making a total of 949. Last year during the first month 753 were enrolled below the high school and 133 in the high school, making a total of 886. By the end of the first month the enrollment will reach 1000. The compulsory attendance takes effect the first week of October and this will bring quite a number in who are not in school now. The opening of the Ridgeview annex has relieved present congestion and the schools start off this year with much less trouble than last year.

The first literary society will meet Friday night, October 6th. The program will be conducted by the Freshman class. On account of the large enrollment in the high school this year it was found necessary to divide the high school into four literary societies, Freshman, Sophomore, Junior and Senior.

garet Rhodes, secretary; Dorothy Bixler, treasurer; Samuel Cross and Kay Wrigley, student managers. Juniors: Clifford Kephart, president; Joseph Errigo, vice president; Helen Traister, secretary; Edith Benetti, treasurer; Al Mumma and Orville Johnston, student managers. Sophomores: Richard Richards, president; Frederick Smith, vice president; William McClure, secretary; Margaret Rankin, treasurer; William McClure and Bertie Bloom, student managers.

Freshman: Max Smith, president; Rose Gallagher, vice president; Errigo, secretary; Gilbert Woodside, treasurer; Max Smith, student manager.

The first game of football will be played with Falls Creek High School on Saturday of this week. Coach James Black is well pleased with the squad this year and is anticipating a good football year.

Principal Grant Norris says that something will be doing at Irvin Park in the near future. Whether the auditorium can be finished for basketball this year is doubtful, but the dirt will be flying by snowflake time. The Curwensville High School is taking considerable pride in the outcome and promise of last year's class. They are engaged as follows: Phil Brown, teaching; Lucinda Clark, registered as a graduate nurse; Bertha Evans, registered as a graduate nurse; Mary Harley, teaching; Joe Hipps, Pittsburgh College of Pharmacy; Robert Humphries, State College; William Kittelberger, Lehigh University; Mildred Korb, teaching; Sidney Korb, Dickinson College; Dorothy LaRock, teaching; David McKinley, State College; Helen Newcomer, at home; Wava Newcomer, at home; Charley W. Norris, Dickinson College; Mary Phillips, teaching; Lee Smith, business college; Harold Starr, teaching; Marjorie Wall, teaching; Viola Way, teaching; Alfaretta Way, proposed graduate nurse college; Hugh G. Norris, Dickinson College; Mary Alice Thompson, graduate student.

Look the above class over and what they are doing and then conclude what the Curwensville High School has done for them in shaping ideals and stimulating ambitions.

WOODLAND

Miss Annis Chappel is visiting relatives in New York.

A. E. Woolridge, whose illness was noted in last week's letter, is so far improved as to be able to be around town again.

Vida Joyce, the little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Palmer, was two years old on Tuesday and a number of little friends of similar age were invited to help her celebrate her birthday. Needless to say they had a fine time and caused a lot of amusement with their childish pranks.

Mrs. M. I. Forsey of Phillipsburg visited relatives here on Wednesday.

Mrs. J. N. Palmer is seriously ill at McGurk's sanitarium, Phillipsburg.

Mrs. H. O. Barger and Mrs. John Woolridge were Clearfield visitors on Wednesday.

Mrs. Lee Heath and Miss Elizabeth Woolridge, both of whom have been ill with typhoid fever, are now on the way to recovery.

William Kugler who recently established a filling and repair station on Main street near the Bungalow school is building a 50 by 50 foot addition to his garage.

The hill east of Woodland, commonly known as Pine Top, is becoming very dangerous for cars traveling westward, especially during or after a rain. On Sunday last three cars were wrecked there. One evening of this week three more cars were wrecked and five more the next morning. Fortunately no one was seriously injured.

Don't Fail To Visit Our Most Wonderful Exhibit at the Fair

We will have many electrical appliances at our Booth, just inside the west door of Expo Hall, and here we will display the most modern electrical household appliances that the Modern Wizard of the Switch has produced.

Miss Frusch Will Demonstrate Westinghouse Electric Range

You have probably met Miss Frusch at our former demonstrations of this wonderful WESTINGHOUSE ELECTRIC RANGE. She will be here all four days to show you the easy way in which this Electric Range will do the cooking while you are relieved of the hundreds of hours over the ordinary stove. She will gladly tell present owners of Electric Ranges the new things which have been found out about this Range.

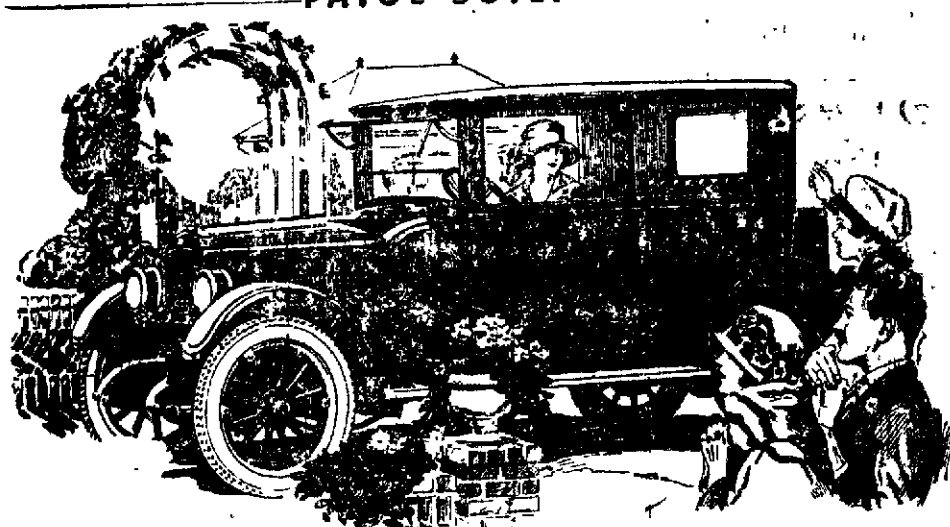

The Royal Electric Sweeper Man with his Sweeper will be Present

You remember him! The fellow with the Golden Crown that has been here for several Fairs. He will show you how the ROYAL will keep your rugs and carpets as clean as the day they came from the maker's looms. He will thoroughly demonstrate that the ROYAL is the greatest Suction Sweeper on the market today.

JEWETT SIX

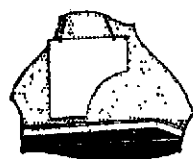

PAIGE BUILT

The New Jewett Six Brougham, $1325

Lasting Lustre, Baked Enamel Finish by New Process

QUITE the smartest car the season has produced—just the achievement you'd expect from Paige engineers. Jewett Six Brougham at but $1325 gives peak quality—the best value the Paige organization ever produced for the money.

How Jewett Brougham steel body panels are enamel dipped for separate baking

The lasting lustre finish is the result of a new process. Each steel body panel is separately dipped three times in finest black enamel, then baked—then separately listened to the extra-large, extra-strong wood body frames. Wood frames—not steel—because wood reduces noise, absorbs vibration. Lift the rear seat cushions. See the steel body panels enameled on the inside, too—no rusting possible.

Never before could this finish be placed on a wood frame body. The intense baking heat would burn the frames. But separate pre-enameled and baking give you a car of lasting lustre. It gives the Jewett Six Brougham the rich black gloss all over the car, seen only on fenders of other cars. Trust Paige to contribute such a step toward lasting good looks!

Full, roomy comfort for five—extra long leg room in front. Two individual front seats which both fold forward, give easy entrance and exit from either side. Rear seat is of full width for three. Interior finish the kind you'll be proud of. Upholstered in velour. Remove the rear seat cushion and there's room for sample trunk or cumbersome baggage. Commodious trunk on rear is extra well made.

Like all Jewetts the Brougham has full 50 horse-power, Paige-built motor that fills the hood.

Hollow crank-shaft high pressure oiling system gives silent smoothness and long life. Paige-Timken axles front and rear; ball-bearing steering spindle; 6-inch-deep frame. Ruggedness throughout that explains Jewett's acknowledged stamina.

Jewett Brougham performs like all Jewetts—goes from 5 to 25 miles an hour in 7 seconds, in high gear; from 2 to 60 miles an hour, in high. Passes most any car on any hill. Gear shifting is rare, and easy when you do shift.

Business men, salesmen, farmers, wives with children to look after—everyone will welcome this new Jewett Brougham. It is smart in appearance—permanently good looking. No apologies for the looks of the finish—requires no attention but washing.

We are proud to have you drive this new 5-passenger Brougham yourself for any kind of a test you want—performance, comfort, good looks, safety and for convenience.

Weak Germany Can't Pay Strong Germany Won't Pay France Still Has Her Major Problem of Reparations to Solve--Must Protect Her Own Rights.

By J. W. T. MASON
(Written for the United Press)

New York, Sept. 22. (United Press.)—Surrender by Germany in the Ruhr and the cessation of passive resistance by the Ruhr miners will not solve the grave problem making the Germans pay the war indemnity.

France will have to engage in still further antagonisms against Germany before normal relations in Europe are restored.

The Ruhr resistance has marked only one phase of France's problem. The major fact of the reparations crisis, from France's standpoint, is that a weak Germany can't pay and a strong Germany won't pay.

France has got to solve the difficulty of allowing Germany to become strong once more and at the same time being in a position to make a strong Germany pay. That means the reparations problem for France is now exclusively a problem of guarantees.

There is no possible room for doubt but that the Germans will refuse to pay the war indemnity at any time they feel themselves in a position to do so without peril to themselves. They might even take a perilous chance if it presented itself.

Want Germany Crushed

The French government realize the fact fully. The French people insist that Germany pay her reparations assessment so that France will not have to be taxed for reconstruction. There is a group of French industrialists and imperialists who would be willing to forego the indemnity, if Germany could be crushed.

But that would mean making the French people pay, and would arouse their resentment, even though France were to expand territorially and a few French industrial magnates were to reap fortunes. Furthermore, it would probably be impossible to push the 65 million Germans permanently.

The French Government, therefore, is not in a position to carry out, except for a limited time, the policy of keeping Germany weak. There will eventually be a strong Germany, and a strong Germany will never pay a penny more of the indemnity than can be wrung from the Berlin government.

By forcing the German miners to work in the Ruhr, France will not find security for herself. The more the Germans work, the stronger Germany will be and the nearer will come the time when Berlin may call the indemnity terms a scrap of paper. France will lose the indemnity in the end unless guarantees of payment are adequate, and no guarantees will ever be adequate that are not backed purely and simply by physical force.

French Army Necessary
Occupation of German territory until terms of so object a surrender are formulated, are necessary. But there must be a French army always ready for occupation and Germany must continue to be kept threatened and in no way allowed to military rebuff. Some small occupational units France will have to keep within the German territory as a constant warning to the people.

The French government, too, will have to hold over the heads of the Germans the menace of another Ruhr conquest and the no less effective threat of breaking up Germany into individual independent states. Otherwise, the Germans will soon forget the Ruhr lesson and will be evading payments again.

No nation, in Germany's condition, could be trusted to abide by written terms of so object a surrender while a chance remained to repudiate the financial clauses. If France doesn't protect her own interests, no other country will do it for her.

MAXWELL-CHALMERS CUTS CREDIT TO CHRYSLER

His Manufacturing Ingenuity, Plus Corporation's Merchandising and Sales Ability States as Reasons.

The manufacturing and sales ingenuity of Walter P. Chrysler, chairman of the board of directors of the Maxwell Motor Corporation, is credited by officials of the corporation for making possible the material reductions in the prices of all models of Maxwell and Chalmers cars, recently announced.

Reductions on the Maxwell range up to $200 on the touring and roadster and on the Chalmers to $100 on the seven passenger custom type sedan. The average reduction on Maxwell cars were $64 on each of the nine models and $69 on the five Chalmers cars. The smallest Maxwell reduction was $4 and $46 was the lowest reduction on a Chalmers model. The new prices make both the good Maxwell and improved Chalmers cars the lowest at which they have ever sold.

"Mr. Chrysler, through his own ability in manufacturing, and that of his organization in merchandising and selling, has succeeded in recent months in effecting economies both in the manufacture and distribution of Maxwell and Chalmers, and at the same time adding numerous improvements in the cars," said Arthur E. Baker, vice president of the corporation, in commenting on the reductions. This Maxwell-Chalmers action has been the subject of considerable discussion among motor car dealers and by the general public.

The reductions, Mr. Baker pointed out, were made at a time when increases in automobile prices were forecast by many observers. "For that reason, especially, they stand out as a remarkable tribute to the ability of Mr. Chrysler, his engineers and the Maxwell-Chalmers sales organization," he added.

"That the public was quick to appreciate the greater value now offered by both Maxwell and Chalmers is convincingly shown in factory sales and shipping records since the announcement. Hundreds of dealers are reporting unprecedented September business."

ODDS AND ENDS
AND THINGS

By J. D. G.

Harry W. Shoemaker, owner of the Altoona Tribune, whose wildlife stories and historical articles have attracted wide attention, attended the famous Frenchville picnic last month and in a recent issue of the Tribune ran the following:

How many Altoonians were at the fifty-second annual picnic at Frenchville, Clearfield county, last month? Possibly more than we think, for the crowd was a large one and familiar faces are apt to be missed in so vast a throng.

As the Frenchville picnic in Central Pennsylvania is an institution we had better tell what it is. Nearly one hundred years ago a group of colonists from Picardy, Normandy and Haut-Marne, in France, arrived in Philadelphia tradition has it that they walked all the way from the port of debarkation to the wilds of Clearfield county, then an almost unbroken forest. They were successful pioneers, clearing many fine farms, establishing grist mills and saw mills, founding the towns of Frenchville, Coudley and LeConte's Mills, but above all erecting a handsome Roman Catholic church, built of the native mountain sandstone, St. Mary's-on-the-Mountain. They became Americanized quickly, for they were of the same type and temperament of the native mountain people, who themselves are largely of French blood, though of the Huguenot strain, the same dark angular, active characters who made ideal woodsmen, artisans and hunters, meeting the needs of frontier conditions.

The colony flourished and its members became well known in agricultural, commercial and political life, but especially as loggers, raft men and ice-cutters. The French tongue of their fathers was carefully guarded, and today they speak as perfect French as can be heard in any Pennsylvania salon, yet their English in the familiar vernacular of the Pennsylvania mountains.

This year's picnic was a day more like October than August. The Keweenaw wind or northwest wind was blowing, there were swirling white clouds in the sky, the air was brisk, and here and there maples showed autumnal coloring.

In the fifty-two years of Frenchville picnics it is said there have only been two rainy days, 1922 and 1877. That favorably sugary brings a big crowd, who are almost sure of protecting their summer finery. Under the grove of giant hemlocks, oaks and beeches, a vast assemblage could be seen most of them eager to enjoy the grand dinner served by the ladies of Frenchville, for which they are justly famous. It was a sumptuous repast and all were fully and carefully served. After the dinner, the dancing commenced, and the mountain couples began their old-fashioned square dances to the music of a local orchestra, with a leader to "call the figures." The writer, of these lines, having heard that some Pinchots were burned in the local cemetery, which seemed reasonable, as our great people's governor's ancestors came from Picardy, in 1816, strolled across the fields toward the burial ground, which looks off at a scene of rolling hills, rising into a distinct, distant horizon as fair a view as ever the first settlers gazed upon in their own beautiful Valley of the Somme. Few cemeteries in Pennsylvania have a grander prospect, or one less American in nature. The view from the Frenchville cemetery is essentially French. It has absorbed the spiritual longings of those buried there in its exquisite, unreal, far away beauty. France in Clearfield county; the souls of the old pathfinders have found their way home in death!

But we looked in vain for buried Pinchots, though we saw many other names characteristically Norman, or of Picard or Haut-Marne origin—Billotte, Demonge, Royer, Ageron, La Motte, Fontenoy, Mignot, Rougeux, Piard, Hugar, Surguy, Vicard Marot, Longin, Renaud, Beauséjour, Beuret, the last probably the original French form of the name of the Huguenot ancestor of our illustrious General Frank D. Beary, at Harrisburg. Among the graves were those of several veterans of the Civil war, and the World war. One of a World war "buddie" was particularly touching: "Nestor Billotte, wounded in the Argonne, November 10; died November 11, 1918." This son of France in Clearfield county repaid the time worn debt on Armistice day in the motherland.

Nearby was a simple marker which read: "Cora St. Clair, wife of Harry

St. Clair, died June 27, 1884, aged 22 years," probably the wife of the general St. Clair, who for years drove the stage between Snow Shoe and Karthaus, yet whose heart was always among the pines of the distant Frenchville, beyond the Knobs. Through an avenue of pines we returned to the picnic ground, a lady the crowd had begun to split up into groups: "Pompey" McGinnis, well known in Altoona, and the most famous hunter in all of Clearfield county, was surrounded by an eager group of youths, who listened with humble interest to his further stories. A tin-type artist was reaping quite a harvest in an open space on the prairie, where several years before some of the old al hemlock had been felled through some one's thoughtlessness, evidently marvelling at the beauty of the park, he took a good put in the old al days, while a crowd of people at Frenchville. City folks from Altoona, Clearfield, Tyrone and Philipsburg had taken possession of the dancing floor and were calling for the modern

Made Gardener Barber.

A major in a certain English regiment had a great contempt for incense of any kind, and was also somewhat impatient. A sergeant could not find him that he could get no one to undertake the duty of barber in the company. "Is there no gardener in the company?" asked the major. "See if you can find one, and send him to me." The man was duly sent, but on receiving orders to act as barber, ventured to expostulate. "Why?" cried the major. "If you can't do it, you can cut hair! Go on at once!"

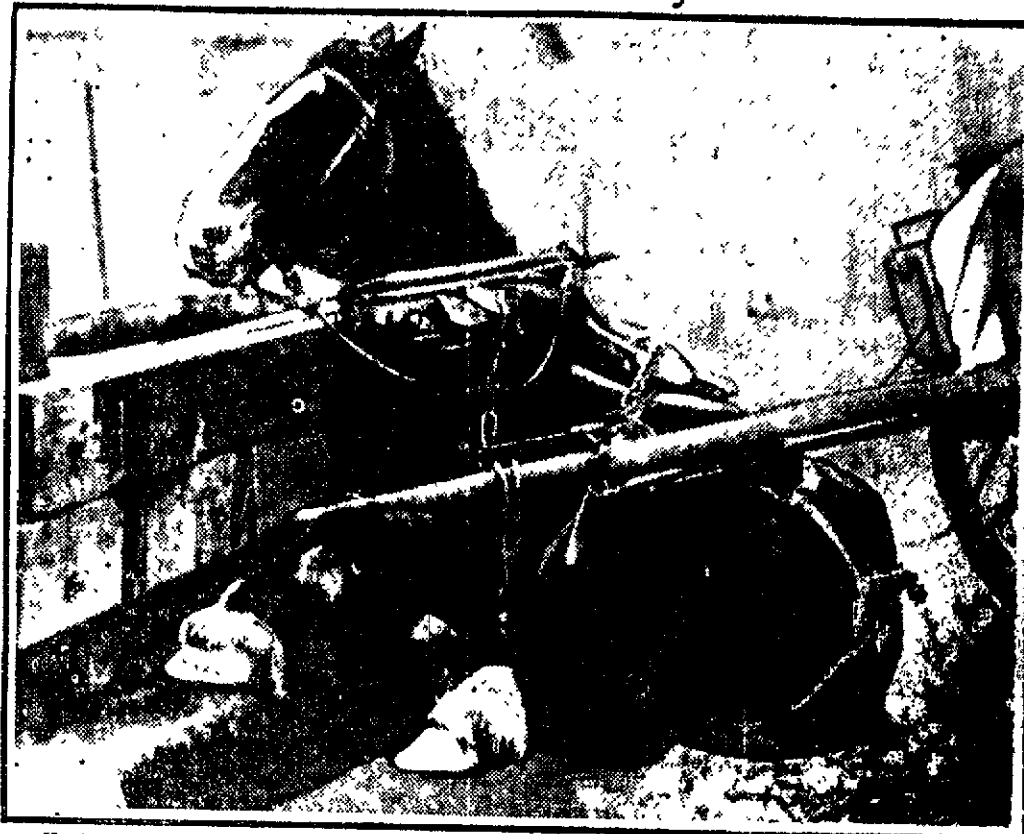

Power of a Smile.

A young woman carelessly tossed an apple core out of the auto she was riding in and a motorcycle cop who was speeding past received it full in the face. He stopped and turned to her with a scowl, and the young woman had visions of an interview with the magistrate. But she smiled at him and her smile won his heart, for he said with a grin, "Lady, I'm glad you are not a bricklayer," and remounting his wheel he sped away.—Boston Transcript.

THANK YOU!

and again THANK YOU!

THANKS—our most sincere thanks—good people of Clearfield and vicinity, for your amazing response to our Opening Day invitation, in the face of such inclement weather. A thousand thanks for the many expressions of good will from our friends. The appreciation of our efforts to make this, indeed, an "Enchanted Land of Fashions," as voiced by the expressions of admiration of our new store and our merchandise, from hundreds of visitors, was the final drop in our cup of joy.

THANKS to our faithful assistants and co-workers, whose untiring efforts for weeks past, made possible the systematic arrangement of the thousands of pieces of merchandise so that during this first day of the store being formally opened there was no delay in entertaining customers.

And just a word about ourselves. For the past eighteen years, LEONARDSON'S has been a household word throughout this section. From small beginnings our Store has grown to its present vast proportions. We number among our patrons many people who, before the bringing of this store to its present plane, used to go to larger cities for their merchandise. Now they come to LEONARDSON'S.

A SERVICE as nearly perfect as possible, giving always ONE HUNDRED CENTS OF VALUE for every dollar expended, showing the NEW THINGS FIRST, doing by others as we would be done by, is now, and always has been, the policy of LEONARDSON'S. Welcome here, any time, whether only looking or buying.
